U.S. Death Toll In 4½ Days 739

CHICAGO (AP)—Accidental death struck down at least 739 persons during the four-day Independence day week-end in the United States. The toll was much higher than expected and rocketed toward the all-time high set in 1936—761 deaths.

Americans died in traffic crashes, by drowning and by miscellaneous accidents at a little better than one every 10 minutes during the 102-hour period between 6 p.m. local time Friday and last midnight.

Highway smashups claimed 458 lives.

Boy Questioned On Shooting At Baseball Game

NEW YORK (AP)—A bullet aimed by chance or incredible marksmanship whipped through the Polo Grounds Tuesday and struck one of 50,000 baseball fans dead in his grandstand seat.

Twelve hours later part of the 40 detectives working on the case found several empty .22-calibre shells on the roof of a nearby apartment building—and a .22 target pistol and two .22 rifles in an apartment one floor below.

They questioned a 14-year-old boy who lived in the room with his grandmother, but said she denied any connection with the holiday shooting.

The boy was booked on a charge of juvenile delinquency made in connection with possession of the guns and pistol. The grandmother, Mrs. Marie Bell, was charged with violation of the Sullivan (anti-weapon) law.

The victim was 54-year-old Bernard Lawrence Doyle of Fairview, N.J., a former fight manager who launched James J. Braddock on the path to the world's heavyweight championship.

Doyle was sitting in an upper left-field stand with a 12-year-old neighbor boy, watching Brooklyn Dodgers pre-game batting practice when persons near him heard a "pop" like a paper bag breaking, and saw Doyle slump back in his seat.

They assumed he had been taken ill suddenly, but then saw blood run from his ears. There was a small hole in his left temple. The bullet had passed through his brain and lodged in the side of the skull. He died almost instantly.

Bandit Chief Of Sicily Shot At Hideout

Carabinieri Catch Up With Giuliano

PALERMO, Italy (AP)—Police shot and killed Sicily's notorious bandit king, Salvatore Giuliano, in his mountain hideout shortly before dawn today.

Officials said the outlaw leader, who had defied and eluded the law since 1943, was trapped and slain in the Castelvetrano area near here, long his favorite hideout.

Apparently he was surprised in the house where he was hiding with members of his gang.

Police cut him down with sub-machine-gun fire in the courtyard of the home. His comrades escaped.

BIG DRAGNET

The police who finally got him were part of a special force of 2,000 carabinieri manhunters who had been closing a dragnet on him for eight months.

In that time most of his band had been wiped out. A dozen or more are on trial and nearly that many have been killed in fights with police.

Giuliano and his men have been accused of killing nearly 300 policemen in battles with the carabinieri and local police forces trying to track him down and halt his reign of robberies and kidnappings.

B.C. Loggers Accept Wage Agreement

VANCOUVER (BUP)—British Columbia's 32,000 coastal woodworkers have accepted a wage agreement made last month between their union officials and Forest Industrial Relations, representing the employers.

Stewart Alsbury, B.C. president of the C.I.O. International Woodworkers of America, said, "Enough votes have come in... to show that members have accepted the agreement."

The agreement, giving woodworkers a 12½-cent hourly wage increase which brings their basic pay to $1.20½ an hour, was signed only a few hours before the woodworkers were due to go on strike.

Sunk Freighter's Crew Reach Safety

HONGKONG (AP)—Three British officers and 99 Chinese crew members of the British freighter Ebonal arrived today from Swatow after a four-day, 150-mile trip by truck, foot and riverboat. The Ebonal was sunk by a Chinese Nationalist mine off Swatow Harbor May 24.

Driver Hurt, $700 Damage To Car

John Madelung, 105 First Avenue South, Port Alberni, is in Nanaimo hospital suffering from injuries sustained in a crash Tuesday near Nanossee Bay. The car went off the highway and wound up in the bed of a shallow creek. Damage to the car was estimated by P.C. Police at $700. Hospital authorities believe Madelung will recover.

Troops, Airmen Deliver Food Supplies In London

LONDON (Reuter)—Soldiers and airmen today marched into 28 strike-bound food warehouses in central London to take over the delivery of butter, margarine, bacon, cheese, eggs and other food.

Convoy of trucks took the supplies to thousands of grocery stores in London which have had no deliveries since Monday.

The government decided to order the troops in when more than 1,000 warehousemen and drivers employed by wholesale stores joined the food strikers on their 12th day. Wholesale

2 Drown While Movie Filmed

QUEBEC (CP)—Two members of the Royal 22nd Regiment parachute corps were drowned Tuesday night and two others were rescued in the filming of a battle scene of a film to be entitled "Quebec."

Army authorities said the victims were Ptes. J. Bellavance and C. H. Madore, both single and both from Rimouski, Que. Next of kin were given as L. de G. Bellavance, Rue Notre Dame, Rimouski, and J. B. Madore, Rue Quellerie, Rimouski.

The drownings occurred at the height of a battle scene on the St. Lawrence River near Brown's Wharf on the city's waterfront.

Thirty men, all members of the Royal 22nd Regiment and most of them members of the regiment's parachute corps, participated.

They were distributed in nine large canoes and were simulating an attack. The men were dressed in multi-colored costumes of early "Voyageurs Canadiens" and carried ancient muskets made of rubber.

They were paddling in an area in which explosive charges set just underneath the water's surface were to explode.

FILLED WITH WATER

One of the participants in the mock attack told the Canadian Press that all but one canoe either filled with water or tipped.

FIVE POWERS' NEW DEFENCE

LONDON (AP)—Air planes, submarines and ships of the five Brussels Treaty powers will be thrown into war games in the English Channel within the next two weeks. The Admiralty said today the object of the exercise is to practice the protection of convoys. The treaty members are Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

A three-foot length of rubber hose, filled with lead, was found on the living-room floor of Mrs. Ryan's apartment.

Blast Rocks Ship, Injuring Forty Men

Accident At Dock In Birkenhead, Eng.

BIRKENHEAD, Eng. (AP)—An explosion rocked the 10,000-ton British ship Cheshire in the Mersey River today and 40 men were reported injured.

The blast occurred while the Bibby Line vessel was being fumigated.

Six of the 40 taken to hospitals were believed to be in a serious condition.

Many of the men were affected by the fumigating gas. Firemen in gas helmets searched the ship for further victims.

The Cheshire was preparing to sail to Australia with British emigrants.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Cameron, 41-year-old marine engine salesman taken to hospital Tuesday night with an ice pick in his chest, still was in critical condition today.

Cameron was found lying in a West End apartment. Found with him was Mrs. Carmen Ryan, 33, her face covered with blood.

A three-foot length of rubber hose, filled with lead, was found on the living-room floor of Mrs. Ryan's apartment.

Gameron has severe chest and throat wounds. Mrs. Ryan, whose condition was described as "fairly good," is being treated for chest lacerations.

Mrs. M. Carv, who occupies the apartment under Mrs. Ryan's, said she was reading the paper when she heard screams coming from the apartment above.

"I knocked on the door and she opened it," she said. "Her face was covered with blood. I asked her what was wrong."

"She screamed: 'Help me; stop him; he's hurting himself.'"

"I looked in the front rooms and saw a man kneeling in the middle of the floor with what looked like a knife in his chest."

"He then rolled over on his back. I rushed out to call police and an ambulance as Mrs. Ryan fainted."

Mrs. Alma Diebolt, sister of Mrs. Cameron, said Mr. and Mrs. Cameron had been estranged for more than a year.

CANBERRA (Reuter)—Australia will introduce compulsory military training "as soon as possible," it was announced today.

The announcement was made after a meeting of the Defence Council, comprising service ministers and service chiefs.

The Defence Council also decided that youths aged 18 will be drafted for between 3½ and four months for all three services.

Hope Still Held For Escape From Pocket

TOKYO (CP)—Fast-moving Communist tanks cut off a United States infantry position south of Suwon today after the Americans had knocked out two Red tanks with artillery fire in their first ground action of the 11-day-old Korean war.

An undiscovered number of South Korean troops also was reported to have been isolated by the tank-led North Korean infantry.

A spokesman at advanced American headquarters said there was a chance the Americans could still withdraw safely from the Communist pocket.

The Americans, setting up a position south of fallen Suwon, had met a North Korean spearhead of eight tanks with artillery fire which knocked out two of the invaders.

Front dispatches said the surviving Communist tanks wheeled suddenly and rammed themselves between the infantry position and its supporting artillery and supplies.

A source at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters here estimated that three or four North Korean divisions were being poured into the outflanking operation. They were under fire from American and Australian fighter planes.

PLANES STRIKE NORTH

Aircraft from the British carrier Triumph and the American carrier Valley Forge struck further north. In attacks on the North Korean capital of Pyongyang they destroyed two Russian-built Yak fighters in the air, strafed eight aircraft on the ground and heavily damaged air installations. All the attackers returned safely to their carriers.

Prior to the announcement of carrier operations, MacArthur's headquarters reported American planes had destroyed seven and damaged four North Korean aircraft.

McArthur's communique reported that the Reds had lost, in addition to the seven destroyed planes, eight armored cars, 1,119 trucks, 22 locomotives, 18 box cars and seven tanks.

Warships accounted for six Red trawlers and five motor torpedo boats. Two other Communist vessels were damaged.

O. H. P. King, AP correspondent at an advanced American base, said the two tanks destroyed by American artillery were among eight engaged. He added in a dispatch that the withdrawal of South Korean forces from the Suwon area had been stopped.

CRUCIAL POINT

If the Americans succeed in breaking up the Communist spearhead, King said this may be the turning point of the Korean war which began 11 days ago.

Tanks that smashed into Suwon Tuesday rolled on southward as the Reds apparently sought to hit new defence lines before the Americans could bolster the South Korean forces.

A steady movement of American troops and supplies continued from Japan to South Korea.

MacArthur was building up a vast array of power for the Korean war. Dispatches from the United States said more than 15,000 men were sent from March Field, Calif., and Spokane, Wash.

There were other major developments along a front more than 125 miles wide.

Inchon, the port of Seoul, apparently fell, after sharp fighting to the northern jaw of a vast Communist pincer movement designed to encircle the South Korean forces between Seoul and Suwon.

DESTROYERS Leaving Base Today

All was in readiness at noon today for the departure at 3 of the destroyers Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux, which the navy is sending to Pearl Harbor to stand by in case they are needed in the Korean war zone.

The cruiser Ontario was also making ready to sail.

The 9,000-ton vessel has been ordered to accompany the three smaller warships on the first leg of their journey. She will sail with the destroyers for 48 hours, then leave them to undergo a short training cruise.

The Ontario, commanded by Capt. H. F. Pullen, will return to her Esquimalt base July 13.

M.P.'s Urge Truman, Stalin, Attlee Talks

LONDON (Reuter)—A Truman-Attlee-Stalin conference on Korea is proposed by three Labor members of Parliament in a motion presented to the Commons today.

The signatories are H.M. King, who represents a Southampton division; J. Rankin, a Glasgow member, and A. C. Manuel, an Ayrshire division M.P.

The motion asks Parliament to urge Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations, to invite President Truman, Prime Minister Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee to confer on steps to bring about the cessation of hostilities.

Destroyers Headed For Pearl Harbor

Three Ships Leave Esquimalt Ready For Action In Korea If Needed

The strongest part of Canada's west coast naval force was heading out to sea today. The destroyers Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux and the cruiser Ontario slipped from Esquimalt harbor shortly after three this afternoon and headed west across the Pacific.

The destroyers are destined for Pearl Harbor, where they will stand by in readiness to take part in the Korean war.

The cruiser Ontario will accompany the destroyers for two days and then will leave the flotilla for a training cruise, returning to her base here July 13.

This morning each ship was a hive of activity, with last-minute supplies being stowed aboard, decks being swabbed, brass being polished and everything in general being made "ship shape."

By noon, most of the work was finished.

The three destroyer commanders, Capt. Jeffrey V. Brock, of the Cayuga; Cmdr. R. P. Welland, of the Athabaskan, and Cmdr. Paul D. Taylor, of the Sioux, met at that time aboard the Athabaskan with Rear-Admiral H. G. De Wolf, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, and Cmdr. D. G. King, Chief of Staff. It was their final briefing.

By 1 o'clock, the first friends and relatives were at the docks to bid farewell to the crews.

Each of the destroyers carries a complement of 250 men. For the most part, the crews are young, comprising mostly of seamen who have joined the service since the end of World War II.

With few exceptions, they were keen and anxious to be off. Excitement has been building up since the announcement by Prime Minister St. Laurent that the three west-coast ships would serve in Korea if needed. Today, the excitement was at its peak.

An hour before sailing time, the dockyard was crowded with civilians. Fathers, mothers, wives and children, brothers, sisters, girl friends and buddies were there. There was kissing and hugging and hand shaking and promises to write and to keep well.

"GOOD LUCK—SEE YOU SOON"

At three the first of the ships slipped away from the jetty. There were shouts of "good luck" and "good bye" and "see you soon."

As the first ship sailed through viewed by Admiral De Wolfe at Duntze Head, the second slipped away and then the third and then the fourth.

Outside the harbor, the ships went into formation. They were off.

Capt. Brock, of the Cayuga, has been named Captain D for the operation and is, therefore, in command of the flotilla. He is 36.

It has been suggested the three Canadian destroyers may be wanted to make up United Nations' task force.

STUART KEATE BECOMES TIMES PUBLISHER AUG. 1

Vancouver-born Stuart Keate, former sports editor of the Vancouver Daily Province and until recently Time magazine's bureau chief in Montreal, will take over the duties of publisher of the Victoria Daily Times on Aug. 1. G. Maxwell Bell, owner of the paper, announced today.

Mr. Keate, 36, is well known to all British Columbia newsmen, particularly in the realm of sport, while his experience with the widely-read United States sports has equipped him with a comprehensive knowledge of modern newspaper production.

No stranger to Victoria, since he filled many assignments of a varied character in this community for the Province, Mr. Keate is today renewing several old acquaintances prior to taking a July vacation at Sproat Lake. He is remembered by not a few Victorians with whom he served as a lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War. He is a graduate of the University of British Columbia, is married and has two children.

Conservatives Back Attlee's Korea Course

No Other Action Seen As Possible

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee tonight opened a House of Commons debate on Korea today by saying: "The only question before the House is whether the government are right in the action they have taken in the circumstances which have arisen in Korea."

Attlee's Labor administration, which has an elected majority of only six, was assured in advance of overwhelming all-party backing for a government motion asking parliamentary approval of its action on Korea.

The motion asked for the Commons to support fully the steps "taken in conformity with obligations under the United Nations' charter in helping to resist the unprovoked aggression against the Republic of Korea."

Only three to the unanimity of Parliament was the possibility of a vote being forced by a handful of left-wing Labor members who doubt the validity of the Security Council's action.

CHARGES REJECTED

The Prime Minister rejected allegations that United States' action in South Korea was "an example of American imperialism."

Facing a tense chamber, in which diplomats looked down from the galleries upon crowded members' benches, Attlee said: "It is to be noted that at the time the invasion of Korea took place a United Nations commission was actually in the country. Meanwhile, North Korea had developed on the general lines of a Communist satellite state and it had been heavily armed."

Biting his words sharply, he said: "The world is faced with an act of naked aggression committed against a sovereign state established by the United Nations and recognized as a lawful government of South Korea."

If the United Nations was not to go the same way as the League of Nations members must be prepared to act when need arises.

"If the peoples wish to avoid another world war they must support their governments in asserting the rule of law."

There were dangers in the situation but, "is it dangerous to take action or to fail to take action?"

"We are all in this. You can't leave it to everyone else. It concerns us all."

"We have pledged ourselves to support the United Nations. Opposition Leader Winston Churchill said he associated himself fully with Attlee's broad conclusion that the action taken by the U.S. and supported by the British government gave, on the whole, the best chance of maintaining the peace of the world."

"No one outside the small Communist circles in this island, or their fellow travelers, believes it is South Korea which is the aggressor..."

ADVANCED COMMAND OUTPOST IN SOUTHERN KOREA (AP)—U.S. troops went into action today against North Korean forces and within two hours an American combat foot soldier was killed—the first of this war.

The two tanks had cut off an advanced U.S. unit from communication with supporting elements.

Bulgar Threat To Yugoslavs, Greeks Feared

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Reports of growing Russianization of Bulgarian military forces and of troop movements on the Macedonian frontier have competent observers here speculating where Communism may strike next.

An attempt by Bulgarians to conquer Yugoslavia and Greek Macedonia and unite it with Bulgarian Macedonia is considered a possibility.

Confidential reports received here match or supplement stories that have appeared in Belgrade and other capitals in the last several months.

Here are some of the reports that stir the speculation:

1. Soviet generals recently have replaced Bulgarian high command officers.

2. Bulgarian troop movements toward the Yugoslav frontier have been reported.

3. Bulgarian authorities are distributing identity cards in case of mobilization. They are registering all vehicles and means of transport.

4. Large quantities of war materials—described as Soviet—are being unloaded daily at the Bulgarian ports of Varna and Burgas. Other important stocks are being sent to Bulgaria through Romania, by way of the Danube.

Observers foresee Communist action no matter what happens in Korea.

If the Communists win in Korea, the move will be to match it without another victory elsewhere. If they lose, a diversion to regain lost prestige will be necessary.

South Koreans Flee From Contact Area

FROM A.P. DISPATCHES

Tank-led Communist forces today (Thursday) struck hard at South Korean troops on the front south of Suwon, outflanking an advanced American unit and threatening a whole important defense sector.

At the same time, a report was received from A.P. correspondent Tom Lambert in Taejon, South Korea, that a sizeable part of South Korea's army appeared Wednesday night to be in full retreat from the area where U.S. forces made their first contact with the North Korean invaders.

Lambert said correspondents saw thousands of South Korean soldiers all heading south away from the battle zone.

The soldiers came down to the highways from the hills and through the rice paddies. They rushed railway stations for trains heading south.

A statement from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said that Communist troops, pressing south from Suwon, had moved forward 11 miles, forcing the South Koreans onto high ground north of Osan, 23 miles south of fallen Seoul.

It added: "North Korean forces continue to press the South Koreans from the north while at the same time extending their columns around the east flank of the defending forces with the apparent objective of cutting off the avenue of retreat."

AIR FIGHTERS STRIKE

Anxious air officers waited for a break in bad weather to loose their aircraft for attacks on the invaders. Yesterday (today) Australian and American fighters struck at the advancing columns, while British and American planes from carriers hit targets in North Korea.

MacArthur's latest communiqué did not mention the plight of American troops trapped by North Korean tanks. The Americans, first to see ground action in Korea, knocked out two invading tanks before they found themselves encircled and cut off from support position.

In teeming rain, the main front-line force of Americans called up reinforcements of men and anti-tank weapons to stiffen the front for the inevitable clash, now hourly awaited.

MacArthur's communiqué confirmed a gathering threat of Communist forces east of Suwon, apparently designed to looff this whole sector of the front. That would open the way for a drive on Taejon, military centre 73 miles south of Suwon.

The northerners were pouring more troops and arms across the Han just south of Seoul despite repeated air strikes on the rail lines stretching north of the city.

A constant stream of U.S. reinforcements was flowing into South Korea from Japan by air and sea, the communiqué reported.

The setback on the Suwon front came after the Communist tanks apparently had been turned back by the fire of U.S. artillery.

U.N. Seen As Dead If Korea Not Helped

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department has prepared a memorandum saying the United Nations "would have ceased to exist" as a serious world peace agency if U.S. armed forces had not been ordered to help South Korea.

The lengthy memorandum, not yet officially released, also contends President Truman acted within his authority as commander-in-chief of the armed forces—in ordering American troops, planes and ships to Korea.

A few members of Congress had questioned the legality of the President's action. The memorandum, dated July 3, apparently is in answer to such scattered criticism.

The document notes that Communist-dominated North Korea defied a United Nations demand to cease its attack on South Korea.

It was to uphold the U.N. stand, the State Department says, that Mr. Truman acted.

"The continued defiance of the United Nations by the North Korean authorities would have meant that the United Nations would have ceased to exist as a serious instrumentality for the maintenance of international peace," the memorandum says.

U.S. CHIEFS WARNED

Early Surprise Blow By Russia Expected

By STANLEY RICH HONGKONG (AP)—Diplomatic observers here predicted today Soviet Russia is setting the stage for a surprise move against the United States in the Far East.

They said the Russians, probably would rush Chinese Communist troops from Manchuria to aid Soviet-supported North Korea in the Korean civil war.

Such a move "can be expected any time within the next month, and probably within two weeks," they added. All demanded anonymity.

One observer gave these reasons for forecasting a Soviet offensive in the Far East:

1. His country (and he declined used of his nationality as well as his name for diplomatic reasons) has "definite word" that the Chinese Reds have been massing troops in Manchuria since they captured Hainan Island, off the South China coast, a month ago.

For three days, independent Chinese newspapers here have reported intensified Communist troops movements northward from South China. My informant's word today is the first official word that this redeployment of Chinese Red forces actually has been going on for some time, and with a definite pattern.

The diplomat added that the Chinese Red troops in Manchuria can be expected to cross into North Korea as Russia's answer to U.S. support for invaded South Korea.

2. The recent withdrawal from Tokyo of high level members of the Soviet mission could be considered an "indication that something big is brewing." He declined to elaborate.

Diplomatic observers agree generally that Chinese Communist participation in Korea is virtually certain. Nevertheless, they also are inclined to believe Soviet Russia has not yet made up her mind as to how far she is ready to go in the Far East at this time.

One observer, pointing out that the Korean conflict has not yet appeared as the lead story in either of Hongkong's two pro-Communist Chinese dailies, said: "We know for a fact that the newspapers in South China have explicit orders not to comment on policy matters pertaining to the situation in Korea. This most probably means that the Russians themselves have not yet reached a policy decision on this matter."

Bandit Chief Shot At Sicily Hideout

Carabinieri Catch Up With Giuliano But His Henchmen Make Escape

PALERMO, Italy (AP)—Police shot and killed Sicily's notorious bandit king, Salvatore Giuliano, in his mountain hideout shortly before dawn today.

Man Suffers Chest Wound From Icepick

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Cameron, 41-year-old marine engines salesman taken to hospital Tuesday night with an ice pick in his chest, still was in critical condition today.

Cameron was found lying in a West End apartment. Found with him was Mrs. Carmen Ryan, 33, her face covered with blood.

A three-foot length of rubber hose, filled with lead, was found on the living-room floor of Mrs. Ryan's apartment.

Cameron has severe chest and throat wounds. Mrs. Ryan, whose condition was described as "fairly good," is being treated for chest lacerations.

Mrs. M. Carey, who occupies the apartment under Mrs. Ryan's, said she was reading the paper when she heard screams coming from the apartment above.

"I knocked on the door and she opened it," she said. "Her face was covered with blood. I asked her what was wrong."

"She screamed: 'Help me; stop him; he's hurting himself.' "I looked in the front room and saw a man kneeling in the middle of the floor with what looked like a knife in his chest."

"He then rolled over on his back. I rushed back to call police and an ambulance as Mrs. Ryan fainted."

Mrs. Alma Diebolt, sister of Mrs. Cameron, said Mr. and Mrs. Cameron had been estranged for more than a year.

Officials said the outlaw leader, who had defied and eluded the law since 1943, was trapped and slain in the Castelvetro area near here, long his favorite hideout.

Apparently he was surprised in the house where he was hiding with members of his gang. Police cut him down with sub-machine-gun fire in the courtyard of the home. His comrades escaped.

The police who finally got him were part of a special force of 2,000 carabinieri manhunters who had been closing a dragnet on him for eight months.

In that time most of his band had been wiped out. A dozen or more are on trial and nearly that many have been killed in fights with police.

Giuliano and his men have been accused of killing nearly 100 policemen in battles with the carabinieri and local police forces trying to track him down and halt his reign of robberies and kidnappings.

Sunk Freighter's Crew Reach Safety

HONGKONG (AP)—Three British officers and 39 Chinese crew members of the British freighter Ebona arrived today from Swatow after a four-day, 150-mile trip by truck, foot and riverboat. The Ebona was sunk by a Chinese Nationalist mine off Swatow Harbor May 24.

Welsh Miners Go On Strike

LLANDUDNO, Wales (Reuter)—Six hundred Welsh miners today joined the pay protest strike which now is costing 16,000 tons of coal daily in Scottish coalfields. The strike spread to 18 more collieries, but three other mines resumed work.

The strikers are protesting against the rejection by the National Coal Board—which runs this nationalized industry—of their claim for another 15 shillings ($2.30) a week for 400,000 low-paid men in the pits.

Troops, Airmen Deliver Food Supplies In London

LONDON (Reuter)—Soldiers and airmen today marched into 28 strike-bound food warehouses in central London to take over the delivery of butter, margarine, bacon, cheese, eggs and other food.

Convoys of trucks took the supplies to thousands of grocery stores in London which have had no deliveries since Monday.

The government decided to order the troops in when more than 1,000 warehousemen and drivers employed by wholesale firms joined the food strike, now in its 12th day. Wholesale

Security Rules Screen Seattle Wharf Workers

Number Of Longshoremen Barred By Army From Embarkation Areas

SEATTLE (AP)—The army has moved to bar an unspecified number of longshoremen from further work at the Seattle port of embarkation because of "security reasons."

Maj. Robert B. Ekvall, public information officer, said henceforth only longshoremen with navy work permits would be admitted to the port.

He said orders had been issued tightening security at the port.

Auriol Moves For New Govt.

PARIS (CP)—President Vincent Auriol today invited Guy Mollet, secretary-general of the Socialist Party, to "undertake a mission of information" with a view to forming a new government.

Socialist opposition Tuesday brought down Premier Henri Queuille's two-day regime on its first test in the National Assembly.

Queuille lost out by a vote of 334 to 221 on a proposal asking endorsement of his cabinet and its policies.

Jailed Because Husband Not Dead

HONGKONG (AP)—Chow Keng today began serving a six-month jail sentence because her husband refused to play dead. Chow, who claimed that her husband died during defence of Hongkong in December, 1941, had been collecting a war pension of 20 Hongkong dollars a week (less than $3.50).

Last May her husband made an untimely appearance, admitted to police he had escaped from the British colony ahead of the Japanese in 1941 and had been drafted into the Chinese army.

Driver Hurt, $700 Damage To Car

John Madelung, 105 First Avenue South, Port Alberni, is in Nanaimo hospital suffering from injuries sustained in a crash Tuesday near Nanose Bay. The car went off the highway and wound up in the bed of a shallow creek. Damage to the car was estimated by P.C. Police at $700. Hospital authorities believe Madelung will recover.

Bus Drivers At Buffalo On Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A strike by 1,700 bus drivers and mechanics today halted public transportation for approximately 600,000 residents of the Buffalo Niagara Falls area.

Officials of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (A.F.L.) were not available for comment. The strike is against the Niagara Frontier Transit Corporation.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Anxiety Can Produce Real Mental Illness

This is a period in history of great anxiety. Most of us are anxious about the state of the world. At least at times most of us are anxious about our finances, our jobs, our marriages, our children, our social position, or one of the other problems of life.

Overanxiety can even produce a real mental illness. Perfectly normal worry can result in mental suffering and in physical symptoms.

In a recent book by Rollo May, Ph.D., called "The Meaning of Anxiety," many aspects of this interesting problem of worry are discussed in learned detail. In this brief comment, it is possible to mention only a few of the many points brought out by May.

It is well known, for example, that anxiety and fear can result in the overproduction of sugar in the body and cause diabetes.

A toxic goiter may result from some terrifying experience. Numerous heart conditions are found to accompany worry or emotional stress.

Long-continued anxiety is believed to be a cause of excessive appetite and resultant overweight. An excessive amount of worry is frequently associated with some forms of high blood pressure. A patient with asthma often has a personality characterized by over-anxiety.

Perhaps the outstanding disease associated with worry is ulcer of the stomach. Research workers have shown that emotional disturbances associated with anxiety will increase the amount of acid in the stomach and will produce other definite changes in the action of the stomach juices. This agrees with the experience of almost all ulcer patients who find that their symptoms are worse whenever they become upset by a quarrel or any other mental disturbances.

QUIET DOWN

All of this means that worry and similar emotions not only interfere with the calm approach to life which leads to a contented existence, but also has an effect on many bodily functions.

Furthermore, we know that there is a close relationship between some of the nerves and the glands of internal secretion which produce hormones and that both may act on various parts of the body in harmful ways.

In view of this information everyone should strive to avoid worrying and should learn to take the problems and conflicts of their daily lives with as much calmness as they possibly can. There is no longer any doubt that a calm approach to one's problems pays dividends in health.

Ehrenburg Bobs Up Again

FROM ITS HEADQUARTERS AT 49 Walker Avenue, Toronto, the Canadian Peace Conference has distributed an "Open Letter to the Writers of the West" by Ilya Ehrenburg, described as "the great Soviet novelist"—who is, incidentally, one of the most prolific of the Kremlin's propagandists. This is the same Mr. Ehrenburg who visited North America a year or so ago and returned to his native land with anything but good to say about those of whose hospitality he had partaken. His subsequent writings were largely confined to diatribes against the so-called capitalist monopolistic and warmongering West.

Ehrenburg's "Open Letter" comprises a special appeal to Western writers by name, including J. B. Priestley, Ernest Hemingway, John Steinbeck, Erskine Caldwell and others. In his explanatory preface, however, the Soviet mouthpiece says he does not expect such well-known authors to subscribe to "my social, political or esthetic views," rather does he suggest "something different" to them such as:

"I propose that they should come out against the atom bomb, against bombs and super-bombs which menace all people; I propose that they should join with the partisans of peace in demanding the unconditional prohibition of the atomic weapon and control to enforce this prohibition; I propose that they should condemn the government which will dare to be first to drop an atom bomb on the inhabitants of any country."

In his best saccharine tone, mainly trading on the earlier denunciations of totalitarianism from the writers to whom he appeals, "the great Soviet novelist" sounds the personal note in practically every instance. Consider this bit from the missive intended to impress J. B. Priestley:

"You visited Moscow a few years ago and you probably noticed how well you are known to our readers and theatregoers. When I returned from Paris after the World Congress for Peace, Soviet people asked me whether you co-operated in our work. I did not know how to explain your absence. In Paris I was told that you refused to come because you have no faith in the success of such conferences and that you were tired."

Doubtless the eminent British novelist, with the Soviet record in the deliberations of the various agencies of the United Nations in mind, felt that he, as the author of "The Good Companions," had very little in common with any crowd toiling the Stalinist line with sheeplike docility. And we wonder how many Soviet people questioned Mr. Ehrenburg on Mr. Priestley's absence, and who they were. Then note this to Ernest Hemingway:

"I remember... when the Italian Fascists attacked Ethiopia, you published an article filled with indignation... but you knew that the rulers of Italy had committed a grave crime. Furthermore, you knew that after Addis-Ababa would come the turn of Paris and London."

John Steinbeck is reminded by the Soviet propagandist that he had written a book recently after a visit to Russia in which he spoke about his "dislike for the Soviet play which depicts Americans who are working up a pre-war fog. This is your personal affair... I could answer that I do not like your book about the trip to the Soviet Union." Small wonder; Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath" dealt with a condition, not a theory. Nevertheless, Ehrenburg appeals to its author in the hope that "you will not shrink from your duty"—that is, of course, "duty" according to the gospel of the Kremlin.

Erskine Caldwell, apparently met the writer of the "Open Letter" in the same bomb shelter in Moscow when the Nazis attacked. So: "You (Caldwell) were indignant at that time. Remembering this, I am addressing myself to you: you 'must' sign our appeal." There you have it, gentle reader, the single quotes on must are ours.

Crocodile tears have washed out of Ehrenburg's consideration all thought of Russia's technique—before the Nazis attacked his country and since the end of the Second World War. Has "the great Soviet novelist" forgotten that under the Russo-German "deal" of August 23, 1939, Russia occupied—June 17 to June 20, 1940—the sovereign independent states of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania and, as we said at the time, "obtained everything she desired" from the defenceless states with a combined population of 4,250,000. And does Ehrenburg remember the pictorial record of Stalin and Molotov and von Ribbentrop signing that memorable document—leaving Hitler's legions free to rape Poland, according to plan?

Russia's policy of aggression since her representatives signed the Charter of the United Nations is too fresh in the public memory to require a detailed recital at this stage. Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, as well as Poland, are now "enjoying" life under a "People's Democracy"—which is another name for a police state with all the macabre trimmings that, by comparison, make existence under the Czar's almost pleasant. So the Ehrenburgs and their ilk everywhere are trying to show that Uncle Joe, in his desire to outlaw atomic warfare, is really a kindly soul "working for peace"—as the Peace Councils of this and other lands tell us. Fortunately for the free world, the men of the Kremlin are checkmated in Korea and the West; they do not like it. Their kind of "peace" is definitely out.

It Isn't A Buyers' Strike Here

TALK OF A BUYERS' STRIKE among United States distributors of Canadian wood—a rumor termed by a spokesman for the lumber industry in this country as "nonsense"—sounds strange to Canadian ears following the recent major boost in prices here. The implications of such a move, were it to take place, will be easily recognized by our people. Forest products are an important element of our export business to the United States. They make a vital contribution to our economy.

At the same time the suggestion that American purchasers may withdraw from the market for a 30-day period because they consider prices excessive underscores the position into which many potential builders of small homes in this community and elsewhere have been forced. The increased price has virtually rendered home construction costs prohibitive for a number of Canadians who had hoped to use the Canadian product.

Frank statements by men in the business that prices on this side of the 49th parallel have been forced up by earlier competitive bidding of U.S. purchasers do nothing to relieve the situation for the little man. The Canadian in that category is not voluntarily staging a buyers' strike to discipline the industry. He is just abandoning hopes of building his new home because costs are too far beyond his pocket. That, surely, is something for the industry to consider.

Encouragement For Others, Too

IT WAS ONLY A SHORT NEWS ITEM on an inside page, but it carried within it a whole new vista for the man it described, as well as for thousands of others who have suffered physical affliction. It told of an Edmonton citizen who had lost both hands in a childhood accident but who recently, through his own and others' efforts, qualified as a welder and gained a job that brought him independence and renewed faith. The Red Cross provided him with an artificial hand, the Alberta government sent him to a welding school, and the National Employment Service found a job for him.

All three agencies co-operated in assisting, but it was the determination and courage of the afflicted worker that guaranteed success. One can only guess at the worry and pain, the disappointments that must have taxed his resolution. But he overcame them all to reach his goal. In achieving that he did himself a great service, but he set a pace that may be emulated by others with similar handicaps. By showing that it can be done, he has lighted the way for his fellows. He has well repaid the investment which others with confidence had made in him.

American Decision On Formosa Provides Much-Needed Respite

By O. M. GREEN.

ALL reports received in London agree that America's decision to defend and control Formosa alike against Communist invasion and Nationalist attacks on the mainland came only just in time. For several weeks past Russian equipment, chiefly airplanes and landing barges, have been accumulated at Shanghai. The worst typhoon season does not begin till August and, although typhoons may come in July, the Chinese Communists by acting quickly would have had time for the invasion which undoubtedly has held first place in their program.

STOUT RESISTANCE

They would probably have met with a stout resistance so long as the Nationalists' ammunition held out. Since February General Chiang Kai Shek has thoroughly overhauled the whole military machine.

The rank and file of the troops are described as excellent, physically hard, in good spirit and (an important point) regularly paid. Their original number of 200,000 has recently been swelled by 150,000 evacuated from the Chusan Islands, off the mouth of the Yangtze, the weakest part of Formosa's defences—if they were tested—would still be found at the top, where the administration reproduces all the evils of the last Kuomintang government in Nanking, in which the efforts of a few earnest, far-sighted men were stifled by the mass of self-interested reactionaries.

But, in contrast with such men as these and General Sun Li-jen, leading generals (despite the poor show that many of them made in the mainland fighting) and politicians flash about in expensive American cars and monopolize all the best houses in Taipei, the capital, which they filled with concubines. And in the background it is feared that the hated "C.C. clique," which did more than anything to ruin Nanking, in China's eyes, retains its full grip on the administration.

COMMON FEELING

Some of the Kuomintang are loud in expressions of repentance and the reforms they will institute when they get back to China. But the common feeling of all observers is that the leopard cannot change his spots and that the American action will be for Formosa's good in more ways than one.

Pawns And King

By WALTER LIPPMANN

AS yet there is nothing to indicate that in the Korean affair the U.S.S.R. has departed from the basic line of its policy, which has been to expand the Communist sphere by the use of satellites without committing and engaging its own armed forces. It has sent forward only the pawns. It has guarded the king.

SINCE V-J Day in 1945 there has been much fighting around the periphery of the Soviet orbit and for the purpose of enlarging that orbit. But in none of the theatres of conflict—in Greece, in China, in Indo-China, in Malaya, in Burma, in the Philippines, in Korea—have the organized military forces of the U.S.S.R. as yet been involved directly. All these wars have been civil and colonial wars. In none have the Soviet forces engaged in open combat with the local forces. The Soviet Union, though indubitably it has intervened, has nevertheless contrived to have the active fighting done by Greeks against Greeks, by Chinese against Chinese, or by Asians against Europeans.

ADHERING to its rule of avoiding direct commitment of Soviet forces, the Kremlin has not been able to carry out every project of expansion. Satellite forces are not always reliable and effective. Thus while in China there has been a resounding success, in Greece and the Balkans the Kremlin has had a setback.

Yet win or lose, the rule has had enormous advantages: by not engaging its own forces, the Soviet Union is reasonably insured against a world war; by not engaging its own forces, its own prestige is not totally committed in any local adventure. Without losing face it can allow the Greek guerrillas to be defeated and it could have waited a much longer time—and probably expected to wait—before Mao was victorious.

It has been a policy quite different from Hitler's—a policy of very shrewdly calculated risks. The Soviets have acted under a rule of policy by which the profits can be very big though the losses are limited.

UNTIL last week the United States had also been able to conduct the struggle without committing its own forces directly. Though the British have been engaged directly in Malaya, the French—at great cost—in Indo-China, Americans, at least, were not. In Europe, including the Balkans and Turkey, no satellite or subversive forces have been able without support of the Red Army to expand the sphere of Communism. The national forces, with help but without armed intervention, have proved to be adequate. The one apparent exception, Czechoslovakia, is not really an exception in view of the fact that it was virtually surrounded by the Red Army and could not possibly have been helped effectively by the west.

BUT on the mainland of Eastern Asia the position has proved to be fundamentally different. Even with arms and supplies and military advisers the native anti-Communist forces would be beaten by the native Communist forces in Indo-China and in Korea as they were beaten in China. The anti-Communist forces, as such, are not able to win the civil wars. The only way to prevent them from losing the civil wars completely has been to engage non-Asiatic forces—French, British and now American.

It is necessary to keep our heads very clear and very cool. The decision taken this week was necessary and it was right. But it is not a triumph—far from it—to be fighting Koreans while the Soviet Union remains in a position to take a profit from our losses and to lose very little by our gain.

THE three leading powers in the Atlantic community—on whom depend the defence and reconstruction of western civilization—are now fighting Annamites, Malaysians and Koreans, and soon they may be fighting Chinese. They are fighting them in Eastern Asia very far from the main centres of the Atlantic community, and very far from the main centres of the Soviet orbit.

The French army is deeply engaged in this eastern struggle, so deeply that the bulk of its regular officers and the best of its regular troops are not available for the defence of Europe. It would be an incalculable great Soviet success if the United States were to become involved and pinned down in a long, bloody, expensive, indecisive struggle on the Asiatic mainland with the Chinese-Korean forces.

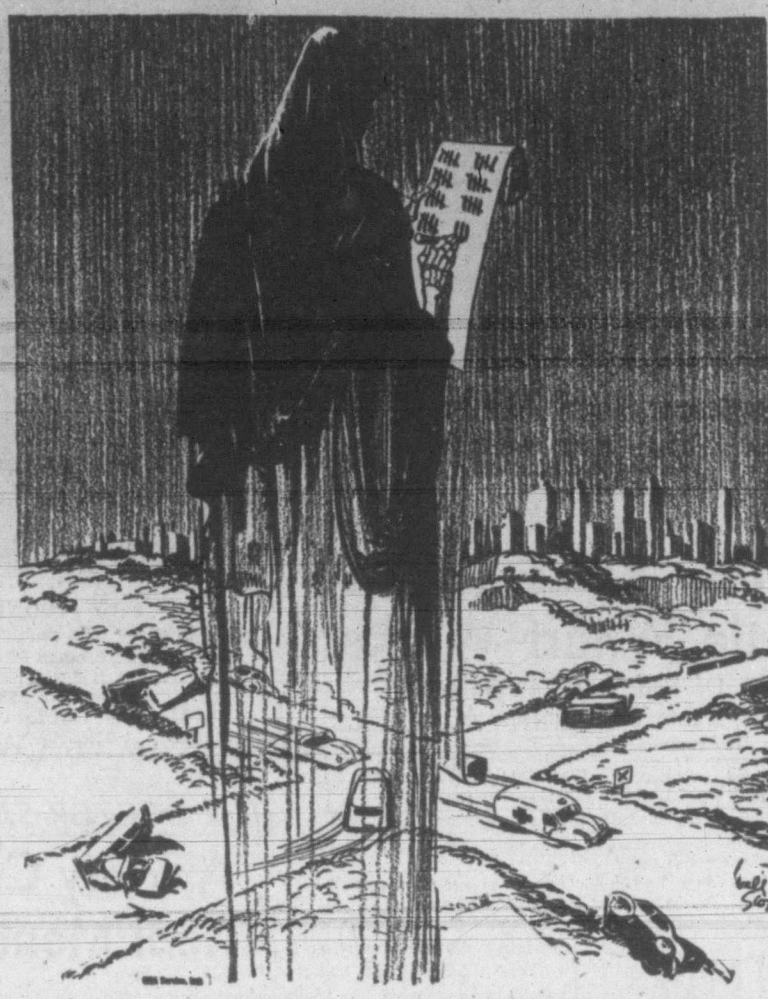

IT should be, it seems to me, a cardinal rule of U.S. policy that at least as long as Soviet forces are not committed in any of these borderland struggles, the United States shall retain mobility and freedom for its own military forces. We must remember that American power is on the sea and in the air, and that we must not commit meager infantry forces on distant beachheads, thus engaging large elements of American power in theatres that are not of our own choosing and where no decision can ever be had.

NEW YORK COURTESY

New York Times
The tourist weighs us by what he can see of us; he cannot perceive the hearts of gold which beat in the bosoms of our citizenry but he does listen to what we say and watch what we do. This means that we would be well advised to wear the mantle of courtesy a little more becomingly.

Courtesy is, fortunately, contagious, and it is at all unlikely that there were to show a bit more habitual politeness to visitors, we would find ourselves being more polite to each other, and that would not be a bad thing at all.

The Only Guy Who Doesn't Take A Holiday

Korea May Force Policy Revision

By NORA BELOFF from Washington

THE SHOCK OF the sudden Communist assault on Southern Korea and the apparent disintegration of the resisting army, trained, equipped and financed by the United States, created confusion, alarm and even panic among certain civilian and military officials here.

Talk of a third World War, comparisons between Stalin and Hitler, Korea and Czechoslovakia, and the nineteen thirties and nineteen fifties are commonplace in Washington today.

The Government had laid itself open to acute embarrassment: only a few days ago the State Department representative, Mr. John Foster Dulles, was assuring Seoul that it would not be abandoned. General William Robert, until recently commander of the United States Military Advisory Group in Korea, was telling a New York Times reporter in Tokyo last week that although the Southern Koreans had no tanks this was only a slight disadvantage in Korean territory, that one Southern Korean regiment could easily match an entire North Korean brigade and that a full-scale attack "was just what was needed to complete the training of the South Korean Army."

A good deal of all this seems to have been wishful thinking; tension and hostility on both sides of the frontier were continually reported to the United Nations by its special Korean Commission. Although all the evidence suggests that the Northerners were exclusively responsible for present hostilities, last March the President of Southern Korea, Dr. Syngman Rhee, in a broadcast speech indicated his Government's intention of "liberating" the Northern Koreans whose cries of distress, he said, could no longer be ignored.

The Southern Republic, "free" for the purposes of American oratory, was "brutalized" by perpetual mobilization, according to recent reports of the United Nations Commission. Assassinations and torture were a common practice of the State police.

Only a few weeks before the present catastrophe, the South Koreans received a sharp note from the State Department warning them that if they continued with inflationary economic policies and rocketing prices without making any serious effort at reform, the United States would reconsider whether it would continue aid.

The present assault has included Americans to take a new look at their policy in Asia. Until now they have been inclined to assume that any liberated people will automatically set up democratic parliamentary government, just as the Americans did after their own war of independence, and join the free nations in the fight against totalitarian rule. The experiences of the past few years have already shaken that confidence; as one senior official handling Philippine problems recently said, "I am afraid I am becoming more colonial every day."

MORE NEEDED

The Korean venture will further demonstrate that American men as well as money and military assistance will be needed in areas which the United States feels essential to its own protection.

The experts on Russian affairs in the State Department point out that during the post-war period, the Russians have been quick to probe into areas of weakness but have found prudence the better part of valour wherever the West seemed capable of resistance.

President Syngman Rhee

London Observer Foreign News Service

AT THE AGE OF 75 Dr. Syngman Rhee is a man of extraordinary vigor and magnetic force. Short and spare, with bald head, small gleaming eyes, white moustache and large ears (traditionally the sign in the Far East of high ability) he seems strung on wire springs, can out-work men 20 years his junior, and still delights in a hard game of tennis.

DEVOTED HIS LIFE

He has many critics among his own people who call him a Fascist; while the Chinese Communist papers call him a "pseudo-Chiang Kai Shek without Chiang's ability" and of course, "a running dog of the imperialists." But no one can deny that he has devoted his life to Korean self-determination.

Syngman Rhee was born on March 26, 1875, an only son of a family which traced its descent from a 15th century King of Korea. He studied literature, particularly the Chinese classics, and passed first in the national examinations for the civil service.

He became President of the Independence Club, edited a revolutionary paper, organized mass demonstrations of students and, at the age of 22, was tortured and jailed for seven years.

During these years Rhee was converted to Christianity, conducted services among his fellow prisoners, translated several English books into Korean, wrote editorials which somehow were smuggled out to revolutionary fly sheets, and also wrote a book on freedom.

Released from prison Rhee was sent by his Government to America in 1905 and strove to persuade President Theodore Roosevelt (then negotiating peace between Russia and Japan) to safeguard Korea's independence. He stayed in America for five years studying at the George Washington University, at Harvard, and at Princeton where he gained a Ph.D. He returned to Korea in 1910 (the year his country was annexed by Japan) as a Methodist missionary teacher. But his concurrent revolutionary activities got him into Japan's black books and in 1912 he fled to America.

His name became familiar in many countries during the Second World War as head of the Provisional Korean Government, which he tried hard to persuade Mr. Cordell Hull, then U.S. Secretary of State, to recognize. But there were two or three other self-styled Korean Governments in the field and that astute statesman refused to be drawn.

When, however, the Americans entered Korea in 1945, Syngman Rhee's record, his old American associations, and his bounding vitality gave him the lead over all competitors. Indeed, any other claimant as the first President of Korea was unthinkable.

INJUDICIOUS

With all his enthusiasm and energy, Syngman Rhee suffers from never having held any sort of administrative post. He is unquestionably a despot, reader to solve problems by the iron rod than by sweet reasonableness. And he is injudicious. A recent sabre-rattling broadcast by him threatening North Korea with invasion, horrified his American advisors.

But with all his faults, there is something vital, even admirable, about this electric old man that history will care to remember.

INDIA'S reported offer to mediate between Russia and the United States in an effort to end the Korean war undoubtedly is inspired by the highest humanitarian motives, but it makes one pause in puzzlement.

Maybe there is something concealed in the proposition which we don't sense, but this column fails to find any real basis for negotiation. The issue would seem to lie between North Korea—the Russian-backed aggressor—and the United Nations, which has condemned the aggression and has called on its members to give aid to the southern Koreans in meeting the assault.

Perhaps the key to India's intentions lies in the statement that she regards Korea as a single country and wants to see it reunited politically and economically. New Delhi is said to hold that any attempt to end the fighting would have to take into account that the Korean people want unity.

The ideological lines are drawn here as elsewhere in the world strife between communism and democracy. If the Korean imbroglio could be negotiated between the U.S. and Russia, then the whole cold war, the globe around, could be negotiated.

And that, as the professor might remark, is an absurd hypothesis.

Still, this Indian proposal has virtue. To my mind by far the most important aspect of the offer lies in the fact that it once more emphasizes that in India's prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, we have a new, great advocate of peace.

Nehru was one of the most devoted followers of the late Mohandas Gandhi, the famed exponent of brotherly love. Now we find the disciple trying to put into practice the preachings of the saintly little Mahatma.

Nehru, the advocate of peace, is one of the newly-developed great world figures who bids fair to play a dominant role in the affairs of the Far East.

As for the ideological war between the Communists and the democracies, there is no mediation which can settle that. The conflict must run its course until mankind finally gives the verdict.

And will that be in the dim future, far beyond our time? It could be, of course, but somehow one has the feeling that the denouement may be closer than it seems.

A tiny spark, you know, can start a mighty forest fire which will travel with amazing speed.

IMMIGRATION POLICIES

London (Ont.) Free Press

Federal policies on immigration have been somewhat vague for years. E. D. Fulton, Progressive Conservative member for Kamloops, B.C., proposed that the matter should be gone into further at a federal-provincial conference on the ground that while federal authorities permitted entry, it was the provincial government which had to contend with any subsequent developments. This might be an excellent plan. It would at least help us to air many sides of the immigration problem which are not as well understood as they should be.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"OLD ROBBIE BURNS," said the Elevator Man, "sure hit the nail on the head with his remark about seeing ourselves as others see us. It would be a great faculty to have and it would certainly give us a lot of valuable information. But I guess it's impossible to pull off. The best we can do is to see ourselves as others describe us—and that's quite a different thing. Going down!"

"Sometimes," said the Elevator Man, "the onlooker's view of you is nearer correct than yours. A man can be much calmer and more judicious about somebody else's problems than he can about his own. And the same thing holds for whole nations. Take India, for instance. It's having a bad quarrel with Pakistan about which is going to include Kashmir in its territory. Neither can see the other's point of view, and it all seems very unreasonable to us outsiders. Yet India has offered to act as a mediator in the U.S.-Russia conflict over Korea, and no doubt could do a good unbiased job. You can be a lot fairer slicing up the pie when you don't intend to have any of it anyway. Lower main!"

"That reminds me," said the Elevator Man, "of the old story of the farmer who wanted to leave his land to his two sons after his death, and had to make sure it would be divided fairly. He knew Tom was a little greedy and might try to get more than he should. So when the will was opened it read: 'Let Tom divide the property in two, and let John have first choice.' That old farmer knew human nature, and he guaranteed justice for John. But drawing that line must have made Tom a nervous wreck."

Hollywood Star Charms Crowds On Unannounced Visit To City

By DAVE STOCK

Joan Crawford arrived in town Tuesday afternoon unannounced. But less than half an hour after she embarked from the C.P.R.'s Princess Patricia, which brought her here from Seattle, she was spotted by one of her admiring fans, who quickly had newsmen on her trail.

The excited voice on the telephone relayed the information that Miss Crawford had gone into a restaurant. It is there that we found her having lunch.

Because of the lunch, we suggested Miss Crawford would prefer to finish her meal and be interviewed after—but that's not the way it worked out.

Miss Crawford threw out the welcome mat. Nothing would do but for us to sit down and join her.

This friendliness was what impressed me most about the woman.

It soon came out in our talk that Joan is on a motor holiday. After making two pictures, one on top of the other, she's taking three weeks away from it all. She's been up from Lake Louise and is now winging her way back home.

"Enjoying it?" she asked one of my questions. "I'm having a wonderful time."

"I've never done it in my life before. It's such a drive all the way."

What brought her to Victoria we wanted to know. Like so many other people she said she'd heard so much about the city she wanted to see it for herself.

What did she intend to do here? we asked. Again the reply was typical: "Look at the stores; buy some woolen sweaters and chinaware; and see some pictures."

What she saw in Victoria in her first half-hour here, she liked. She was particularly happy about the boat trip over and the fact that the captain had invited her up to the wheelhouse "where they steer the ship."

"Steering a ship like that is quite a job," she reported.

JOAN CRAWFORD

"And it was exciting to watch." Miss Crawford bubbled over with happiness when informed one of her latest pictures was now playing in the city.

"Do you mean I timed it right?" she laughed. "Where is it playing? How long has it been here? And are people going to see it?" she wanted to know.

Looking wonderfully well Miss Crawford, who is 42, confessed she had no trouble keeping her slim figure even though "I eat like a horse."

She said a regular breakfast as far as she was concerned consisted of half of a grapefruit; two or three eggs, four to six pieces of bacon, toast and jam, and iced tea.

For lunch, she has either steak or chops and for supper "a good-sized man's meal."

Miss Crawford sipped iced tea as she talked. It was surprising to learn she never drinks coffee.

When talk turned to movies, she told of her latest picture "Harriet Craig" a re-make of one made some years ago called "Craig's Wife".

We wondered if she was anxious to get another highly dramatic role like Mildred Pierce, the part she played in 1945 when she won the Academy Award.

She said no; that she didn't mind what type of role she had,

as long as the story was good. "That's the trouble today," she said. "Good scripts are hard to find."

The two pictures she's already made this year, meet her contract requirements for 1950. This summer she intends to spend entirely with her children: Christian, 11; Christopher, 7; and Cynthia and Cathy, 3½-year-old twins.

The children are adopted but Joan is very devoted to them. On her current trip, she has phoned them every evening, except one day when she could not get to a phone until after their bedtime.

The children are all enthusiastic swimmers, even the tiny twins. They learned from a noted Hollywood swim instructor when they were only 2½. The price of the lessons, their mother recalled, was $100 for 10. The lessons lasted half an hour each.

"I'm anxious to get back to them now," Miss Crawford said as she told of her family. "We've got so many things planned." The children are going to find their mother has acquired quite a tan on this trip and some freckles besides.

123 'CHUTE JUMPS BY MAN IN DAY

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Sgt. John W. Swetich made his 123rd jump at 11:15 Tuesday night and then called it a day after setting a world record for the most consecutive parachute jumps.

Following his last jump at Sandrock Airport near here, the 32-year-old veteran paratrooper from Dillon, Mont., said:

"That's enough. I've got the world's record and I better quit now. I almost broke my neck on that last jump because of the wind."

The previous record of 105 jumps was set by Juan Iriarte or Buenos Aires, May 19, 1950.

No Red Tape On Leash To Take Fido To Live In U.S.A.

By ROY THORSEN

If you are moving to live in the United States, don't leave your best friend—the dog—behind.

Many people are under the impression there is a lot of red tape involving months of quarantine and other matters to go through and therefore leave their poodles in new homes here. I found out differently Tuesday in going through the necessary steps for the owner of a dog. It's all quite simple.

Apparently, though, from what the customs officers told me, it is a great deal harder to bring a dog into Canada from south of the border.

All one has to do is have a veterinarian give the canine a thorough checkover and certify the dog is in sound health. Then there are customs forms to fill out describing the dog as export goods. From then on the dog is practically a citizen of the United States, in the canine ranks, that is. He just moves with you.

Take the case of Sambo, the pet of Mr. and Mrs. John Lund and sons Wilfred and Peter, now residents of Port Angeles.

Sambo has no pedigree. He's just a dog. Not an out-and-out mongrel, mind you, but it is difficult to pin him down to a definite breed. From the look of him he's predominantly cocker spaniel, but somewhere along the line there are other breeds thrown into his make-up.

Sambo has a keen affection for the Lund boys and to try and transplant on U.S. soil without the dog . . . well, it would be cruel. To them he's a blue-ribbon winner and Sambo went with them today.

THE HOME GARDEN

Get Out And Visit; See What You Can Grow

By JACK G. BEASTALL

The final list of jobs to be done in July includes work in the greenhouse and on house plants.

Cuttings may be taken from many greenhouse plants. Select young shoots placing them in pots of sandy soil, sand and peat moss, or vermiculite. A closed propagating case will be found beneficial except in the case of pelargoniums (commonly referred to as geraniums).

Cacti and succulents go outside in full sun and receive moderate amounts of water, being allowed to dry out between each application.

CONTROL RED SPIDER

Hot, dry weather will give trouble from red spider. Control by maintaining sufficient humidity in the greenhouse, or by syringing house plants with clear water.

Clematis which have finished blooming will need less shade. Maintain watering until growth is completed, and, as the plants show signs of resting, expose them to more sun and air.

Zonal pelargoniums, for winter bloom, should be fully exposed to sun and air. Pick off all flower buds and pinch back any straggly shoots.

Cyclamen should be removed from pots, shaken free of old soil and repotted, after which a north cold-frame makes a good storage place.

Winter blooming begonias (fibrous rooted) raised from cuttings should be potted up. Tuberous rooted varieties will benefit from a little stimulant to keep them in good condition.

LEARN BY VISITING

Now, a note for all home gardeners. During July and August plan to visit commercial gardens, nurseries, seed farms, parks and public grounds, and your experimental station at Saanichton.

Much may be learned from these sources, especially in regard to the amount of material which can be grown in this district.

The greatest benefit, possibly, is being able to select material, or gather ideas, while the plants are actually in bloom. Instead of having to conjure up visions from seed catalogues.

To Build Museum In Elk Island Park, Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Resources Minister Winters announced here today arrangements have been made to build this year the first unit of the Elk Island National Park historical museum.

The museum project will commemorate the early Ukrainian settlement of the northern Alberta district. It will consist of three units. The first, a replica of the early Ukrainian farm home, will house exhibits of early household furnishings as well as farm tools and equipment.

The second unit will be a larger modern structure to contain other historical exhibits and specimens of the flora and fauna of Elk Island National Park. This building will also serve as a central community hall.

The third unit will be a replica of old Fort Victoria. The establishment as a whole will be designated as a memorial to the life and service of Dr. A. E. Archer, a pioneer medical man of northern Alberta, described by Mr. Winters as "one of the most public-spirited Canadians of his generation."

Council OK's Arena Floor Rules Work Satisfactory

City Council Tuesday put an end to the controversy over the construction of the floor of the Memorial Arena by accepting it from contractors as being in accordance with the requirements of their contract.

The council's action vindicates the contractors, Luney Bros. and Hamilton, who were charged with "poor workmanship" by C. T. Hamilton, consulting engineer. Mr. Hamilton had declined to accept the floor on the grounds the contractors had not constructed it according to specifications. He suggested removal of a certain portion of the floor surface and a complete resurfacing.

Ald. Waldo Skillings was the only council member who voted against acceptance of the floor from the contractors.

CITY RESPONSIBLE

He said acceptance would mean the city would be responsible for any future repairs to the floor.

"How do we know the defects won't occur next year," he said. "If they do the city will have to pay the bill."

Ald. Frank G. Mulliner, chairman of the arena committee, said he had been assured by engineers that the floor was satisfactory and the work had been properly carried out by the contractor.

Ald. Skillings pointed out that one of the pipes from the refrigeration plant broke during the winter due to the heaving of the floor. "How do we know that won't happen again?" he added.

Ald. Mulliner said action had been taken to stop the floor from heaving in the north east corner of the arena. "It is impossible to do anything more," he said.

Model Planes From Victoria At Ladysmith

Victoria model airplane fliers journeyed to Ladysmith to compete in a control-line contest sponsored by the Lions Club of the up-island centre.

Bill Vye of Victoria won top honors in junior stunt flying. Later his plane crashed, a total loss. Gary MacDonald of Chemainus was second in this event, with Andy Rittich, Victoria, third.

Two Victorians, Doug Gollis and Don Harvey, took first and second in the open stunt flying. All speed prizes went to Rod McLeod and Don Harvey. They took firsts in classes B and C respectively. No records were broken.

In senior competition Frank Lewis of Ladysmith took top honors, with Walter Henderson in second place.

Point meets will continue at Oak Bay High School grounds on July 9 at 2 in the afternoon. Control-line flying will take place.

Caretaker To Take Charge Of Tyee Camp

Council Acts On Complaints Of Nearby Residents

The emergency shelter at Tyee Camp opposite Point Ellice Bridge will have a caretaker to help keep order there.

City Council at a meeting Tuesday approved the appointment of a caretaker after receiving letters from residents living near the camp asking that the shelter be closed down.

Residents complained the tenants had failed to keep up appearance of the camp and to abide by sanitary regulations.

Rats were being attracted to the area due to the unsanitary conditions, they said. They also complained of frequent drunken brawls and that tenants used obnoxious language.

Aldermen agreed that the camp was an eye-sore and the tenants a problem.

WORST EVER SEEN

"Some of the people living there are the worst I have ever seen," stated Ald. Charles Bamfield.

He said Boy Scouts at one time used a hut in the camp but the children living there "smashed all the windows."

"We would like to see the camp closed down," commented Ald. Waldo Skillings, "but what are we to do with some of the tenants. Some of the people are social welfare cases."

He said a caretaker was necessary to keep a check on things going on in the camp and to collect rents from the tenants.

"With the exception of a few tenants they are not paying any rent," said Ald. Skillings. "I have been told that one man bought a new car and has not paid any rent to the city for three years."

The suggestion that the camp be closed down was out of the question, he said. "There was not enough room in any other shelters to take care of the tenants."

Councillors Raise Doubts About Saanich Roads

Are Saanich roads reconstructed under the by-law what people thought they would be when completed, councillors are asking.

Councillor E. P. Cummins thinks part of Tillikum Road was "in terrific shape." He also does not like the reconstruction of a Burnside Street hill.

Others think some of the roads now with surface coats were what was expected.

Councillor George Austin tells about one resident who telephoned his last year and gave him a terrific tongue-lashing over the condition of the reconstructed roads. "A week ago he phoned me up again and apologized because he liked the outcome," said the councillor with a chuckle.

PSYCHOLOGY PLUS CASH

Recommendations Of Committee On Pensions Takes Midway Course

By GORDON E. LEIGHTON
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Psychology plus cash must collaborate to practicalise the new pensions plan presented for the aged—the former to help prevent too great a demand for the latter.

In their pay-as-you-go pension recommendations, the parliamentary committee charged with the duty was able to achieve complete unanimity. The tendency of one side to overbid another for purposes of popularity, evidently has been held sternly in check by the realities of cost. And the plan as proposed strikes a midway course between the aims of the ultra-ambitious and those of the extra cautious.

At a cost of $324,000,000 plus perhaps an additional $32,000,000 annually, the plan could not be termed "non-contributory," except so far as some of the recipients will be concerned. The tri-partite theory of cost entailing contributions by employee and employer and the government, if it should be approved, will mean that contributors will start at once to pay for the pensions they will receive later on.

Apparently the committee, with an eye to economy of administration, had in mind some form of collection akin to that peculiar to unemployment insurance.

The idea of payroll deductions plus employer contributions, payable in, perhaps, the same offices as unemployment insurance, pleases both those members who view "social security" as an all-round inclusive effort and those who view with horror the thought of thousands more civil servants.

LOTS OF EXAMPLES

In their efforts to achieve the best result, the committee examined the systems now in force in Australia, New Zealand, Denmark, Sweden, United States, United Kingdom, France and Switzerland. Notwithstanding the dependence in most of these countries on the controversial means test, the committee recommended against it on the main plan. They stood by on their subsidiary suggestion for a $40 pension for those between the ages of 65 and 69.

Sociologists, welfare organizations, the chief labor federations, manufacturers, life insurance officers and others were heard

In Edmonton Minister States Region One Of Richest In Natural Resources

EDMONTON (CP)—Resources Minister Winters said today that Canada's northern territory is "potentially one of the richest sections of the continent in terms of natural assets."

Faster Air Link From Vancouver To Whitehorse Soon

WHITEHORSE, Yukon — A direct four-hour air service between Whitehorse and Vancouver will be in operation by Canadian Pacific Airlines within a few months, G. W. G. McConachie, president of C.P.A., told members of the Board of Trade at a special reception here.

Mr. McConachie announced that C.P.A.'s weekly service from Vancouver to the Orient will soon be making Whitehorse the first stop on the flight eliminating the present stop at Anchorage, Alaska. At present it is a weekly service.

The president predicted also that within two and a half years, the Whitehorse-Vancouver run will be one of the first jet propelled air services on the North American continent. This will be a reality when C.P.A. puts into operation on its trans-Pacific runs the two De Havilland Comet aircraft which are now on order.

Pensioners' Group To Hold Tag Day

The Canadian Pensioners' Association will hold a tag day Saturday. A portion of the money will go to the Mayor's Fund for the Manitoba Flood Relief.

For more than 23 years the association has been holding annual tag days to assist ex-serv-

In a speech to the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines, Mr. Winters said that from the earliest times fur production had been a mainstay of the northern economy. But the mining industry, more than any other, was responsible for the opening up and permanent settlement of Canada's 1,500,000 square miles of northland.

"There is no doubt the basic long-term development of the north will depend on the continued discovery and use of mineral wealth," he said. "Drilling programs continue to multiply and the spirit of the men active in northern mining enterprises is definitely optimistic."

Besides the search for minerals, efforts now were being made to locate petroleum and natural gas near Fort Province and Big Island in the Northwest Territories.

"Should these efforts meet with success, the whole mining outlook in Canada's sub-Arctic would be rapidly transformed," said Mr. Winters.

He reviewed the assistance the federal government has given the north and said that this year $2,400,000 is to be spent on road improvements in the Yukon.

Previously announced plans for a power project at Mayo call for the construction of a $3,000,000 development to produce between 6,900 and 8,900 horsepower by 1952.

21 JAPS HOLD OUT ON ISLAND

HONOLULU (AP) — Five years after the end of the war, 21 Japanese on a tiny mid-Pacific island are still holding out against U.S. forces.

A navy communiqué Tuesday said island—Antahian in the northern Marianas is so small and unimportant it won't risk sending a landing party to take it by force.

The U.S. navy has tried everything short of war to get them out. Pamphlets and food have been dropped from planes. Boats circle the island broadcasting over loudspeakers that the Second World War is over.

The Japanese are not convinced.

Other bids were: Commonwealth Construction Co. Ltd., $776,332; Dawson and Hall Ltd., $773,750; Northern Construction and J. W. Stewart Ltd., $785,000; and Bennett and White Ltd., $792,814.

'Hot Rod' Racing Car Kills Two, Injures Ten

PAGELAND, S.C. (AP) — A "hot rod" racing car plowed into a group of spectators here Tuesday, killing two and injuring 10 others.

A car driven by W. Cecil Clark of Charlotte, N.C., lost its left front wheel and hurtled to the inside of the track, where about 30 persons were standing.

Two of those injured were reported in critical condition. Clark was not hurt.

Police said the spectators had

DWINDLING RETURNS HAVE SPORTS LEADERS WORRIED

NEW YORK (UP)—The dwindling box office was a stark reality in sports today after the July 4 celebrations. Baseball attendance fell off from last year's holiday. So did racing. What's more, last year's figures were off from the year before—and so the worry is when the diminishing returns stop.

A total of 202,714 saw seven major league double-headers—one was rained out—making an average of 28,959, as compared with last year's average of 32,097.

Fifteen race tracks drew 274,225 who bet $11,347,149, as against 244,064 who bet $11,731,607 at only 13 race tracks last year.

In all, about a million persons celebrated the fourth at sports events.

Sluggert Puts Aces In Runner-Up Spot

Four runs in the top of the ninth inning plus some "dinky" pitching by Brian Sluggert last night gave Brentwood Aces a 4 to 0 victory over Chinese Students and enabled the suburban nine to move into a tie with the losers for second place in the Senior A Softball League.

The game could have gone on until darkness forced a halt as the teams battled through eight innings of scoreless ball, but Stan Tenning, the Students' starting pitcher, bumped into trouble in the ninth.

Hal Yardley opened the last inning with a single. The student infield played in for a sacrifice from Willie Benn, the next batter, but he crossed them up and bounced a high single over Bung Derr's head at third base.

John Fumston bunted back to the mound and Tenning cleated to try for the force, at third base but was too late and the bases were loaded. Ronnie Benn followed Fumston and he popped up in behind Don Robinson, the Students' shortstop. Robinson slipped, and fell down and the ball dropped in for a hit. Yardley scored the first run of the game.

With one away in the top of the 10th, Robinson doubled and Bill Prior drew a walk. Walt Cameron dropped Ken Wright's fly to centre field, sending Robinson over and Prior to third. Alf Kubicek singled home Prior and Wright scored when Dan McGee lofted to Cameron in centre.

The game was ridden with errors—Eagles committing nine and Capitals five. Rookie Wright, usually reliable Eagles' shortstop, kicked in with five miscues. Not one of Capitals' nine runs were earned.

15-Mile Bike Race Friday At Beacon Hill

A senior men's 15-mile race for the Moody Cup will feature the racing program to be presented by the Victoria Cycling Club at Beacon Hill Park Friday night, starting at 7.

Morrie Robinson, veteran Vancouver rider and twice winner of the trophy, will be over seeking his third victory and permanent possession of the trophy.

Stiff competition is expected from Johnny Millman, British Empire Games cyclist and Lorne Atkinson, Olympic and Empire Games rider, both from Vancouver.

Victoria entries will include Norman and Alf Mathews, Howard Jeffrie, Allan Jones and Malcolm Graham.

Other events will include a five-mile race for B class riders; junior boys' one mile and three classes of standard model races.

Entry forms may be obtained at any bicycle store.

Greco Spoils A's Bid For Twin Win

Tri-City, Wenatchee New Threats For Top Berth

A bases-loaded home run by Dick Greco in the fifth inning and an error by Athletics' second baseman, Jim Moore, in the seventh prevented Victoria Athletics from sweeping a wild double bill from Tacoma Tigers Tuesday.

Greco's big blast came with the A's leading 5 to 0 in the second game after having won the first 6 to 5. Moore's boot came with the bases loaded and on the tail end of an attempted double play in the final inning of the abbreviated nightcap with the A's on top 5 to 4.

The wild throw to first enabled two Tigers to cross the plate with the tying and winning runs and a 6 to 5 decision.

Greco, for whom a fence has been erected in centre field of the once spacious Tacoma park, also figured in the winning rally following a walk to Ron Gifford with a single to put the first two Tigers on base in the seventh. After a sacrifice had advanced the runners, Dick Wenner was purposely passed to load the bases.

Red Fisher then hit a made-to-order double-play ball at Billy Dunn but Moore's throw to first rolled all the way to the stands and Greco and Gifford scored.

The A's did all their scoring in the fourth inning and all five runs were unearned.

HEDGECOCK WINNER

Jim Hedgecock got credit for the first game triumph though he needed help from John Marshall in the ninth.

In trouble most of the game Hedgecock staggered through until the ninth on the strength of a 6 to 1 lead gained by the A's in the first three innings.

Marshall was called in with runners on first and third and one out in the final frame. He struck out Wenner and got Fisher on a pop-up to end the threat and save the game for Hedgecock, his sixth win of the campaign.

Al Romning got the only extra base hit of the game for the A's but it was a bases-loaded triple in the third which sent the Tigers' ace southpaw Bob Kerrigan to the showers. Don Carter hurled seven innings of one-hit ball in relief but the A's made their early lead stand up.

Bob McGuire, the A's new outfielder, picked up four hits in the twin outing, getting three for five in the first game. Gene Thompson picked up a pair of singles in the first contest and a Moore brace in the second.

REGISTER SWEEPS

Around the rest of the league it was hometown day in the holiday double headers.

Tri-City, Wenatchee and Spokane all won a pair.

The Indians two-timed Salem Senators, 6 to 1 and 4 to 1.

Seixas-Patty Struggle For Berth In Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (UP)—Young Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and veteran expatriate Budge Patty met today in the Wimbledon semifinals for the right to defend America's tennis honor.

They were the only Yank survivors on the men's singles. Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt played top-seeded Frank Sedgman of Australia in the other semifinal, and the winner assails the onerous dreams of a U.S. champion.

The American women fared far better. Seven of them were in the singles quarterfinals today.

Defending champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., met Shirley Fry of Akron, O., Margaret Dupont of Bellevue, Del., met Gertrude (Gussie) Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., Patricia Todd of La Jolla, Calif., met Mrs. Betty Hollar of Jacksonville, Fla., met Barbara Seifried of San Francisco.

BEATS STURGES

Young Seixas continued to cut his upset swathe through the late portions of the tournament when he popped off fourth-seeded Eric Sturgess of South Africa, 9-7, 6-8, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, yesterday.

Seixas is seeded 12th. He eliminated eighth-seeded Jack Bromwich of Australia Saturday.

Patty, a Los Angeles product who now lives in Paris but campaigns in international tennis as an American, downed second-seeded Billy Talbot of New York, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, in another upset yesterday. Talbot was considered the top U.S. hope in the tourney since Ted Schroeder did not defend the title.

Sedgman beat Art Larsen of San Francisco 8-10, 5-7, 7-5, 6-3, 7-5, and Drobny downed Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Scene Of Flowers In Italy

Stretched along a street in Genzano, Italy, is a colorful "mosaic" made up entirely of flowers, illustrating the "kiss of death" with which Judas betrayed Jesus. It is part of an annual ceremony.

Smart With Shears

ROMNEY MARSH, Kent, Eng. (CP)—Elsie Humphreys, 24, can show the men a thing or two when it comes to sheep-shearing. In an open contest, her time for shearing two sheep, winding and blundering the fleeces, was 38 minutes—the men took 40. She won two first prizes.

Monument Unveiled

ELVERUM, Norway (CP)—It was in this town in eastern Norway that King Haakon replied "no" when Germany made its demand for surrender in April, 1940. A monument has now been unveiled to commemorate the historic occasion and the King and Crown Prince Olaf were present at the ceremony.

Dog Population Of U.S. Estimated At 20,000,000

Guessers Base Opinions On License Figures For 225 Breeds, Mongrel Hordes

WASHINGTON (UP)—The dog population of the United States is between 15,000,000 and 25,000,000, or about one for every eight persons, according to "guesses" based on licensing statistics and other registrations.

The devotional tie between men and dogs dates back 5,000 years, but how and when these animals were brought to North America still is an anthropological mystery.

The American Indians domesticated dogs long before the first European settlers arrived, but there is no evidence to support the possibility they accompanied the "red Mongoloids," believed to be the first men to emigrate to America from Siberia.

MAYBE LATER

Anthropologists suggest they were imported from the frozen wastelands of Asia at a much later date.

Early Indian lore mentions such animals and the bones of dogs have been uncovered in ancient heathen burial grounds.

The practical Indians of colonial times used their dogs for such utilitarian purposes as hunting, sentinels, and even food when game was short. There are accounts of burying of live hunting dogs to serve their deceased masters in the Happy Hunting Grounds.

The peace-time services performed by dogs in the saving of human lives, the guiding of the blind, the tracking of game, and the guarding of home and possessions, were readjusted like almost everything else to serve the nation during the last war.

GIVEN CITATIONS

The K9 corps trained hand-picked dogs for special wartime patrol, courier, and searching duties. Many of the GI dogs executed feats of heroism for which they were awarded citations from the U.S. army for meritorious service. Several were killed in the line of duty.

Dog shows are big business today. Hundreds of aristocratic pedigrees in their best dress, with courtly manners, perform for judges before thousands of spectators. A prize winner of the annual dog exhibits is figuratively worth its weight in gold.

There are about 225 breeds of purebred dogs and in the United States alone hundreds of millions of dollars are spent annually for the care of pedigreed and mongrel pets. Last year U.S. dog owners bought something like 1,000,000,000 pounds of prepared dog food.

Cleans Chimneys

CONGERSTONE, Leicester-shire, Eng. (CP)—Congerstone's new rector doubles as chimney-sweep. He cleans chimneys for his parishioners to raise funds for his church.

Romney Court Goes Abroad

ROMNEY MARSH, Kent, Eng. (CP)—The Court of Romney Marsh, elected by the people every year, held a session outside its ancient courtroom for the first time in its 500-year existence.

Members visited a nearby amusement park to hear a record player which residents claimed was too noisy.

The court, after listening to "The Merry Widow" and "You Are My Heart's Delight," decided to grant a license for the player if the park management guaranteed to keep it toned down.

New Treatment For Radiation Sickness

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A treatment which for the first time yields hope of saving a substantial number of people from deadly radiation sickness resulting from atom bombing has been reported to the American Medical Association.

The treatment is a combination of whole-blood transfusion and doses of the drug aureomycin.

Dr. J. Garrott Allen of the University of Chicago medical school reported this method had saved the lives of two dogs which had been given lethal shots of X-rays.

X-radiation was the third cause of death in the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Blast and heat were the main producers of casualties.

Flicker Meter Aids Diagnose Heart Disease

CHICAGO (UP)—A new "flicker meter" developed by two scientists is expected to save many lives by detecting heart disease cases before they become serious, it was announced here.

The device can be used by doctors in their own offices. It was developed by Dr. L. R. Krasno and Dr. A. C. Ivy of the University of Illinois medical school during 10 years of research.

Their finds were announced in "Circulation," official journal of the American Heart Association.

The meter consists of a "window of light" which flickers at controlled speeds. At higher speeds the light appears steady. When the speed is slowed, the flicker is noticeable.

Heart disease, the doctors said, affects the blood vessels of the eyes. Persons afflicted with heart trouble do not notice the flickering of the light until the machine is slowed much further than for normal persons.

They said that when a person with heart disease is given a nitroglycerin tablet which dilates the blood vessels, the patient sees the flicker normally. But nitroglycerin impairs the perception of normal persons.

The doctors said the test should permit doctors to detect cases of hypertension and coronary heart trouble in time to take preventive measures.

German Boy Mother Start Life In Canada

CENTRALIA, Ont. (BUP)—The barriers of Nazi oppression and Allied red tape have at least been broken for one small peace-seeking German family.

Peace came to Mrs. Elizabeth Klein and her 15-year-old son Gerhard when they arrived here from bomb-scarred Durlach, Germany.

Their dream of coming to Canada was born in the prewar days of Germany, and was realized when they stepped off the Ss. Beaver Brey on to Canadian soil.

Gerhard, or Gerry, as he is already known to his new-found friends, can hardly wait for school to open in September so he can prepare himself to become a Canadian citizen. His mother plans to attend night-school classes after the summer vacation.

Young Gerry's schooling was interrupted in Germany by the necessity to keep himself and his mother alive. Before he left his homeland he worked as a clerk in a Durlach radio factory.

The mother and son live with Fred Werner, a cousin, whom Mrs. Klein had not seen for 25 years. Mrs. Klein's husband is dead.

Alberta Indian Fine Painter

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP)—Gerald Feathers of the nearby Blood Indian Reservation took his place in the field of Canadian art when 19 of his paintings were displayed at the Edmonton Museum of Arts.

The work of the 25-year-old Indian is distinctly Canadian, showing a strong Indian sense of color. Included in his display were western scenes, Indian portraits and intricate native designs.

His big break came in 1941 when he submitted a portrait of Chief Shot on Both Sides to the Banff School of Fine Arts. It resulted in a series of scholarships which gave him four years of instruction at the Institute of Technology and Art in Calgary.

Two of the young Indian's portraits of notable chiefs are in the Ottawa office of the director of Indian education. Employed as a commercial artist by a large Edmonton department store, Feathers is also illustrating an Alberta traffic and safety guide being prepared by the Alberta Safety Council.

House Collapses

CHESTER, Eng. (CP)—Mrs. McKown ran out of her house a few moments before it collapsed. Her husband and children were away at the time. Name of the street: Tumbling Hill Street.

Prove it Yourself! Clothes LOOK CLEAN—FEEL CLEAN—SMELL CLEAN— Because they ARE CLEAN— with OXYDOL!

*In actual washing demonstrations, women are seeing for themselves how much graying dirt deep-cleaning Oxydol can get out of clothes already washed with leading no rinse suds! And this is a fact more and more women are proving for themselves at home: when you use Oxydol as directed, clothes wash deep clean... sparkling clean! You can see clothes are clean... whites wash dazzling white, colors brilliantly bright! You can feel clothes are clean... so soft to the touch and easy to iron! You can even smell clothes are clean... wind-blown fresh and sweet! That's because Oxydol reaches deep down into fibres for dirt—cleans clothes all the way through! Yet Oxydol is truly safe! Deep-clean clothes stay brighter and new-looking longer! Try deep-cleaning Oxydol yourself—next washday. At your dealer's in the familiar Oxydol package.

Gay as all outdoors! The walls of pale sunshine... cupboards a soft moss green... table tops and counters, tomato red. And the floor! A magic reflection of these rich natural colours, captured in Gold Seal Congoleum. Mother doesn't worry when the small fry track in sand or mud. A broom or damp cloth removes the evidence faster than it takes to scold the culprits.

A Congoleum rug is long-wearing as well as beautiful. It has a wear-layer of heat-toughened paint and baked enamel equal in thickness to 8 coats of the best floor paint applied by hand. For the most for your money, look for the Gold Seal on every rug.

Army Units Build In North

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the Canadian army's biggest construction jobs now is under way in the far north, where personnel of the Royal Canadian Engineer detachment of the Northwest Territories and Yukon radio system are busy on a $500,000 building project.

Army headquarters said 11 construction crews comprising nearly 200 men will carry out the work at widely-separated points. The biggest job will be construction of three houses at Fort Resolution, on the southern shore of Great Slave Lake and 700 air miles north of Edmonton. The houses will be for married army personnel and their families as well as staff quarters for the transport department and a new power house.

In addition, plumbing of a new school erected there a year ago also will be completed. Other construction jobs in the Northwest Territories are proceeding at Fort Good Hope, Norman Wells, Fort Norman, Wrigley, Fort Simpson, Fort Providence, Reliance, Fort Chipewyan, Fort McMurray and Embarras. Most of the work being done by the army crews is the construction of housing, new signals station and the development of older establishments.

Cancer Registry Helps Doctors Detect Disease

Data On Individual Cases Kept On File By University Of Washington Specialists

By PETER HAYES

SEATTLE (UP)—Development of a simple test to tell if a person has cancer and where may be hastened by a tumor registration system here.

Plaques Give Noted Writers Immortality

LONDON (CP)—London has posted up two new literary landmarks in the form of plaques to commemorate the dwelling-places of noted writers.

One disc hangs at 16 John Adam Street, just off the Adelphi, where Thomas Rowlandson, 18th-century satirist, lived. The other marks Grove Lodge, Hampstead, old home of the late novelist and playwright John Galsworthy.

Glimpsed unexpectedly, the glazed plaques give tourists and Londoners intriguing little insights into history. There are about 400 of them throughout the city.

Rowlandson's was the 165th put in place by the London County Council. In the "square mile" of the City itself, the Corporation of London has placed a further 188.

There are gaps today in the list of be-plaques sites. War damage razed many buildings once so marked and all but wrecked others. As new buildings rise in their places, the plaques, too, are replaced.

COST ABOUT $30

The plaques cost between $25 ($77.50) and $30 to make and put in place, and before one is installed old parish records and the like are checked exhaustively to be sure the correct site is being marked.

The roster of personalities remembered by plaques is long and varied. Some have more than one disc to mark their old haunts. Novelist Charles Dickens has four while politician William Ewart Gladstone, poet Dante Gabriel Rossetti, novelist William Makepeace Thackeray and politician Joseph Chamberlain have three each.

U.S. Firm To Publish In U.K.

LONDON (CP)—A United States publishing firm is going to produce books in England for export to Canada.

Pocket books Inc. of New York, through Marshall aid, is establishing a subsidiary in Britain. The Bank of England will allow it to repatriate from Britain the $125,000 it will have to invest originally, plus profit to the extent of $93,750.

Proceeds after that will have to remain in the United Kingdom, unless a new arrangement is reached or controls are relaxed. The new company will publish low-cost reprints of primarily British titles.

Besides saving on Britain's dollar imports, and supplying Britons with low-cost books, a statement said "the project is expected to result in substantial exports, including those to Canada and other hard-currency areas."

The key to the project is co-operation among the University of Washington medical school, the Washington State Department of Public Health and pathologists and physicians all over the state. The tumor registration system collects data on individual cancer tests before, during and after a person develops the disease.

Established three years ago, the registry now has records of about 10,000 cancerous tumors on file. The records include samples of living tissue from discovered tumors, a diagnosis by both the original pathologist and by registry researchers and a case history of the patient.

HEALTH SERVICE AIDS

The registry was set up and perfected by Dr. Jess B. Spielholz, assistant state director of public health, and Dr. Stuart A. Lippincott, professor of pathology at the U.W. medical school. It is supported by a grant-in-aid from the U.S. Public Health Service and by the State Department of Health.

The mass of background data on cancer compiled by the registry led the National Cancer Institute to select the University of Washington to evaluate the Penn test results.

This test, developed by Dr. H. S. Penn of the University of California at Los Angeles, reportedly was 98 per cent accurate in distinguishing between normal and cancerous patients.

The tumor registry also is of invaluable use for teaching purposes and to consulting physicians in determining what types of cancer predominate and are common to what sex and age groups, etc.

SERUM BANK SET UP

Used in conjunction with the tumor registry is a serum bank. Dr. Lippincott said it is hoped that 100,000 samples of blood from non-normal persons will be collected in the next several years. The serum, or liquid part of the blood, is separated, classified and stored away in a deep freeze.

If a person whose blood is on file at the university later develops cancer, researchers will then have a sample of his blood when normal and be able to trace the source of the disease better.

With its three doctors, seven chemists, 15 technicians and five secretaries, Washington State's tumor registry is now recognized as one of the United States' most efficient and comprehensive projects of its kind.

Several cancer institutes, in other states, including Texas and Michigan, are setting up similar systems.

New Bofors Gun

KARLSBORG, Sweden (CP)—The Swedish Air Force staged one of its largest postwar exercises when aircraft from seven squadrons repelled an "invasion fleet" on Lake Vattern, south of here. Along with bombs, rockets and automatic cannon, a new 57-mm. Bofors anti-aircraft gun was used.

Fur Animals Hit By Disease

THE PAS, Man. (BUP)—Game officials believe epidemics of two diseases made heavy inroads into the northern Manitoba beaver and muskrat populations last winter.

Dr. James McLeod, University of Manitoba biologist, said here he believed the beaver population had been affected by tularemia and muskrats in thousands by Errington's disease, which was enteritis caused by virus. It should not be taken for granted that beaver losses were caused solely by tularemia or that losses were limited to certain infected areas, he said.

Man Tells Of Monster In Lair

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter)—Along the bushy banks of the Ingwenpisi, no far from the borders of Swaziland, there lives in a secret lair deep in the lonely hinterland a black, snakelike monster, 7 feet long and thick as a man's body.

At least, that's the report of George Atherstone, described by police as a reliable business man, from the town of Piet Retief. He says he saw the monster's great head and the coils of its undulating body at a spot where it had frightened African women.

"The monster undulated through the water as if swimming," he said. "At one time the tail was on one bank and the thickest part of the body—thick as a man—was on the other, 40 feet across, and the head was swaying menacingly in midstream."

Police rushed to the Ingwenpisi. They have seen no part of the monster, but they have seen the water boiling furiously "where normally it flows calm and deep," they said.

Licensed motor vehicles in the Union of South Africa are at a record number of 598,687.

White Deer Herd Offered For Sale

BROCKHAMPTON PARK, Gloucestershire, Eng. (CP)—A dollar market—or a gigantic barbecue—may be the fate of 26 white English deer.

Maj. E. C. Cannon acquired the herd when he bought 63 acres of parkland. He can't afford to maintain it, and he's tired of venison, so he advertised for "any reasonable offer."

Cannon believes his is the only white deer herd in Britain and, perhaps, in the world.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Actor Coburn Tells What He Knows About Women

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After observing the opposite sex for most of his 73 years, Charles Coburn concludes that "a woman doesn't reach her peak until she's at least 40."

The famed actor with the monocle and the pouting lip delivered the opinion at his spacious and memento-filled Hollywood Boulevard home.

"Put any woman past 40 in a room full of debutantes," he proposed. "In a few minutes, you will see she has monopolized the attention and has the men in her control."

"She has learned to make the man seem the centre of importance. Younger girls feel they must be the focus of attention."

Coburn warmed up to his subject and spoke in the soft tones of his native Georgia.

"A woman past 40 may have lost some of her youthfulness, but she has gained an inner beauty which is more important

A man, he added, doesn't reach maturity until 50.

"After all, women are always more advanced for their age than men."

"A girl of 12 or 14 is always more advanced than a boy of the same age. In fact, it starts earlier. A girl baby may be bawled in a room full of women. But let a man enter the room and she will start preening her feathers."

The actor admitted life began at 69 for him.

"When my wife died," he recalled, "I was terribly depressed. I had an offer to come to Hollywood and I took it, even though I had no desire to do movies. But I found the work fascinating and I have never been happier."

Coburn gets a chance to display his romantic technique in "Loulou." He and Edmund Gwenn, another mature Lothario, battle for the hand of Spring Byington.

Churchill Warns Against Red Korean War Success

LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill said Tuesday night that come what may in Korea, the western world "shall not be trampled down into serfdom and ruin." He emphasized that he does not believe a third world war is inevitable.

In an Independence Day address at a dinner of the American Society in London, Britain's Conservative Party leader declared:

"It certainly seems to me that there would be a better hope of a general settlement with Soviet Russia following upon the defeat of aggression in Korea on a localized scale than would be possible after another Communist success."

"The new fact in relations with Russia is that we have been told that the Kremlin oligarchy knows how to make the atomic bomb.

"Nothing would more surely prepare the way for a third world war than that we should drift on while large quantities of these devastating weapons are accumulated."

"The situation is not appreciably worse than it was before the aggression in Korea began, but I always held that it was bad enough already—it all depends at what point you start to think."

If what the Communists had begun in Korea should end in a triumph for them, "a third world war may be forced upon us, or even hurled at us."

Union Oil To Re-enter Business In Province

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Union Oil of California, which sold its B.C. filling stations and other holdings in 1943, is reported planning to re-enter the province.

Negotiations are said to be under way in which McQueen, White and Dickinson Co. Ltd. of Vancouver would be operators for the oil company in B.C.

Plans are reported to call for an initial expenditure of $1,250,000 in Vancouver for a tank farm, wharf, filling stations and other distribution facilities.

Union Oil of California now is in the B.C. exploration field with extensive acreage in the Peace River area.

The human skull normally contains 22 bones.

India's Millions Receive Instructions On Casting Votes In Coming Election

BOMBAY (Reuter)—Preparations were under way for India's first general election next spring under the republican constitution, which has given the 17,000,000 population the right to choose their government.

This "world's largest electorate" will include 46,000,000 women.

More than $10,000,000 has so far been spent by the government in the preparation and printing of electoral rolls. The task has been a difficult one for the army of enumerators—with the vast linguistic, religious, cultural and social diversities of the Indian sub-continent.

The enumeration has been made more complicated by the constitution, which introduced universal adult suffrage. With only 15 per cent of the people able to read or write, and a budget cut to the bone, the money spent on enlistment operations was too little for the magnitude of the task.

Pearkes Foresees No General War

NANAIMO (BUP)—One of Canada's former army leaders says he cannot see a major war developing from the Korean war.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, said here: "The United Nations are able to cope with the situation."

He commended President Truman for his work, stating: "It took a lot of courage for the President to take such action."

"It is encouraging," Gen. Pearkes said, "that the U.N. has supported his stand."

The election commission is an "independent statutory authority" created by an article in the constitution.

The commission, according to democratic conventions, will not be subject to any party or political pressure. It has wide powers of the delimitation of constituencies, preparation of electoral rolls, conduct of elections, and settling election disputes. The commission is answerable only to the people's Parliament.

BCE Sponsors Band Concerts

First of the series of eight outdoor band concerts, sponsored by the B.C. Electric, will be presented tonight in Cameron Bowl, Beacon Hill Park, at 8. James M. Miller will conduct the 30-piece band. Guest artists will be Miss Grace Adams and Arthur Stringer.

In salute to American visitors

Victoria Daily Times 13
WEDNESDAY, JULY 5, 1950

here to observe their July 4 holiday, the program will open with a Sousa march, followed by a selection from the musical comedy "High Jinks." Miss Adams' solos will be "Romance—From the Desert Song," and "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning." As his contributions, Arthur Stringer will sing "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline," and "That's An Irish Lullaby."

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

IN THE HEAT of the late afternoon, the summer symphony settles into a drowsy hum above the beach. It seems to rise and fall like a thin veil lifting in the breeze, torn only by the shout of a child at play, or the rough barking of a dog. It is the subdued melody of a Lotus Land, with the soft hiss of small waves on the shore and the dull throb of a passing ship lending it rhythm.

It is a time of languor that recalls lazy days in the country, where the idle music of a cowbell seems to set the tempo of living, where the drone of the cicada tells a monotonous story of continuing fine weather, and where the erratic crackling of a grasshopper in flight is an irritating intrusion.

It's holiday time, with an overture more convincing than the summer theme from "Porgy and Bess"—a time to forget the world men have made, and enjoy the superior world that nature provides.

IN AN EARLIER day around Victoria's waterfront, families used a system of whistles to summon home wandering children at mealtimes. The whistles were in different pitches and from them issued different calls. One long and two short blasts brought in the offspring of one family. Another group might respond to two long and a short. Their message was clear and distinct. They proclaimed that food was on the table and the kids had better hike homeward—or else.

One enterprising family even rigged up a discarded klaxon from a car. A press of the button completed the circuit from the extended light wires, and the horn beeped noisily. It was quite the most modern and most raucous of all beach signals, until something went wrong with the wiring. The klaxon wailed its mournful note, uninterrupted, for five minutes and then burned out. Everyone was happy, but the man who had rigged it up. In those days, people seemed to look a little more critically at innovations. Nothing was accepted as good just because it was "modern." We hadn't become quite so "progressive."

THE MOST impressive of all dinner calls used to issue from the beach-side home of the Whites at Foul Bay. The family had a rowboat that looked as if its designer had started out to make a dory and then had gone fancy. Every noon one or two of the boys seemed to be out in the kelp bed fishing from it. Another boy, standing on the veranda of the house, would pick up a megaphone and shout a mile across the water to them. Great voices the callers had— took the place of lunch hour sirens for the other youngsters who didn't have a whistle system.

The scheme wouldn't work so well today. The crowds are bigger. There would be too many whistles. And more kids seem to own watches nowadays.

WAY BACK IN history, when so many people couldn't read or write, a person who could sometimes make an honest penny letter writing for the illiterate. The pay didn't come very high. The postal service wasn't much, and not many people thought of letters. Still there was a need for a fellow with a nice hand and a smooth turn of phrase.

It's different now. Most people on this continent can lay pen to paper on their own behalf—or better still, hit typewriter keys in a way that makes their letters readable. That's probably why the Walter L. Earnshaw Co. of Hollywood, California, is doing such a business in facsimiles of handwritten personal letters from the Golden State.

They're some letters sharp with wisecracks but solid enough for the folks back home. They describe the climate, the scenery, the places of interest, and even have little pictures, the size of postage stamps, drawn in pen and ink on their pages.

THE OLD ROUTINE of the vacation postcard, with its statements "I am well, ill, lonesome"—you cross out what you don't want—has come a long way under Earnshaw's direction. If you didn't know the sender's handwriting, and if the sender could match his signature to the ink on the letters, they might almost fool you—except for the copyright mark at the bottom corner.

Maybe it doesn't matter that the descriptions and sentiments are phrased by somebody else. Most holiday letters home aren't very good anyhow. But it's a little startling to think that when a civilization has fought its way up from illiteracy, it can lapse right back into the practice of illiterates through sheer laziness.

U.S. Army marksmen are taking part in city police revolver shoot at Thetis Lake this year for first time. Team members from Fort Flagler, Wash., are shown preparing "shooting irons" for competitions. From left: Sgt. D. A. Dewey, Lieut. Leo J. O'Connor, Pte. Gordon Johnson and Sgt. A. O. Topper.

This shootin' business isn't for men only. There are some straight-shooters among members of the fairer sex. Two from Victoria taking part in shoot: Mrs. F. McAllister and Mrs. T. Webb.

Veteran "Dead-eye Dick" in the revolver shoot is "Pop" Wales from Bremerton, Wash., who is a great spinner of tales. He is shown relating a hunting yarn to Murray Laidlaw, C.I.L. man for B.C., Yukon.

Crack Revolver Shots Of Pacific Northwest Gather Here For Annual City Police Shoot At Thetis Lake Range

Top Marksmen In City For Police Shoot

Some of the finest pistol marksmen in the State of Washington and British Columbia were among the shooters who opened fire this morning to usher in the annual pistol tournament of the Victoria City Police Revolver Club.

Scene of marksmanship duels during the two-day meet is the club ranges to the north and east of Thetis Lake. Club secretary Napoleon Bouchard estimated 60 persons, including families of marksmen, are here from Raymond, Bremerton, Port Townsend and Seattle points.

There are ranking shots from Vancouver, Chilliwack, New Westminster, Sidney, Victoria and other mainland points.

U.S. ARMY TEAM For the first time in the history of the tourney the United States Army is represented in the city meet.

They comprise a team from Fort Flagler, Wash., and are members of the 56th Amphibian Tank and Tractor Battalion, commanded by Col. Clarence G. Hupfer.

The team is composed of 1st Sgt. D. A. Dewey, 1st Lieut. Leo J. O'Connor, Pte. 1st Class Gordon A. Johnson and Master-Sgt. Arthur O. Topper. Dewey and Topper are expert marksmen, the other two are not classified.

Oldest shooter on hand to vie against the younger generation is "Pop" Wales, white-bearded and 76 years old from Bremerton. This is his fifth successive appearance in the local tournament.

SEATTLE POLICE ENTRY Capt. Walter Day of the Seattle police, however, has a strong team of police marksmen with him. They include Mel Schaefer, a master marksman. Another master at target shooting, Mel O'Dell of Raymond, Wash., is running for sheriff in his county.

Among the B.C. police top marksmen in the competitions are Blisley shot Insp. Jake Young, a master 22 marksman, and Sgt. Jack Henry and Joe Gibault. The Victoria police force is well represented and there are entrants from the other municipal police forces of the area. Several women are competing against the male shots.

GET FUEL NOW, MAYOR ADVISES VICTORIANS

Store up your winter's supply of fuel now, Mayor Percy George advised citizens today.

The mayor recalled that many citizens suffered hardships last winter due to the shortage of fuel.

"Citizens should take precautions now to see that they have sufficient coal, wood and sawdust in case of another hard winter," he said. The mayor warned that the fuel situation could be more serious than last year because Vancouver Island now was practically dependent on Alberta for coal.

Woodworkers Voted 90% For Agreement

I.W.A. members in the lower Vancouver Island area voted nearly 90 per cent in favor of acceptance of a new working agreement their negotiating committee reached last month with Forest Industrial Relations Ltd.

This was confirmed today by officials of Local 1-118 of the logging industry union. The Victoria vote was one of eight received at headquarters in Vancouver indicating general acceptance of the agreement by the province-wide membership.

The agreement provides for a 12½ cents an hour wage increase, maintenance of membership and continuance of a 40-hour work week.

Fraser Canyon Fires Battled

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seventy men, mostly loggers, today were fighting two serious forest fires in the Fraser Canyon region, 130 miles east of here.

The largest blaze covered about 600 acres; the other was burning over a 40-acre area. Forestry officials said valuable timber stands were threatened.

Decision Still Awaited On Island Highway Route

Guessing will have to continue on the route of the new Victoria outlet of the Island Highway forming part of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Public Works Minister E. C. Carson said today he had no idea when the route can be announced.

It will be made known when tenders are called for construction of the new highway, and details of the work have not been completed yet.

The minister said surveys of traffic using existing roads were under way still, and that negotiations with the federal government on value of road work "under way or completed by the province, having a direct bearing on Trans-Canada Highway plans, had not been completed either.

Traffic count on various roads is being carried out by means of a mechanical device attached to rubber tubing, which motorists will have noticed stretched across the pavements in different sections.

One such mechanism is in operation on Burnside Road, around which there has been considerable speculation on the new outlet for the Island Highway.

It is felt by many the highway will take the Burnside route, joining the present main road up-island at Langford or in the vicinity of Goldstream.

This would eliminate heavy hospital premium of $40.50, Leslie Coulter, 1133 Yates Street, was fined $5 in city police court today.

ASKS PARKING BE RESTRICTED

A two-hour parking limit on the south side of Fisgard Street in the 700 block was requested by David Yuen, manager of the Victoria Laundry, in a letter to the City Council today.

He said customers complained to him that they could never find any parking space. Practically every space on the south side of the block was taken up all day by parkers, he said.

New Traffic Laws Near Completion

City Solicitor Expects Draft To Go Before Council In September

The new Streets Traffic By-Law to replace the present by-law which has been a source of confusion to police and motorists due to its multiple amendments, will be submitted to the City Council in September.

In a letter to the City Council, A. J. Patton, city solicitor, explained that the new by-law as drafted will permit the council to delegate its powers to the municipal manager to enact traffic regulation changes.

Under the present system, all traffic changes have to be approved by council. This includes even the erection or removal of a traffic sign on a city street.

The present by-law caused unnecessary delays and amendments, Mr. Patton pointed out. Aldermen were responsible for all minor traffic changes, which took up a great deal of their time.

FOR MUNICIPAL MANAGER

Mr. Patton explained that it would be of little use to pass the by-law before the Municipal Manager took office in September, because it would be invalid. He said the council in this respect could not delegate the

Latest Arrivals In Town
Add Interest To Counters

By PENNY SAVER

You don't just walk into a grocery or department store these days with a half-interested expression on one's phosogle, not unless you are color blind in one eye and can't see out of the other one! Every fruit and vegetable counter is a riot of color and with each day offers something fresh in from farms of this province or from as far south as California and Arizona.

This morning's latest addition to the color festival was boxes of raspberries, peaches, vine-ripened tomatoes, local cherries, peach plums and black currants. By the pound the large luscious red tomatoes were 45 cents; raspberries, 40 cents a box; local cherries, a pound for 33 pennies; California Elberta peaches, four beauties for 25 cents; peach plums 27 cents a pound and black currants, 35 cents for a pound.

Spotted some very fine looking Winesap apples selling at 2 pounds for 25. Don't know how long they will stay solid, unbruised and fresh looking, but they were in good condition this morning... apricots, and they'll be bidding all a fond farewell very shortly selling out at 20 cents a pound or by the crate $2.49... plums, sweeter by the day, 25 cents a pound... seedless grapes, a pound for 33 cents... two boxes of strawberries for 49 cents or the 99-cent baskets containing about 3 pounds of berries. Summertime treat, watermelon, 8 cents per pound.

Sweet cherries, plucked freshly from the tree tops just for you... but you've gotta pay for 'em... 27 cents a pound; that is... honey-dew melons, the small size 23 cents each, larger ones, 53 cents... bananas, 20 cents a pound... gooseberries, 29 cents a pound... grapefruit from Arizona, 3 for 25 pennies, and cantaloupes, 2 for 27 cents.

Lettuce has been pulling up its socks and looking bright for 8 cents a head... green peas, on special in one store, at 2 pounds for 35 cents... green beans, a pound for 25 pennies... 10 pennies buys a bunch of beets, an ear of corn or a pound of turnips... English cucumbers, they're the kind that are almost seedless, selling for 15 cents each and the white spine variety... the ones with the bumps... 16 cents for one... fresh spinach, 2 pounds for 21 cents... cauliflower, 20 cents each... and carrots, 2 bunches for 23 cents.

Local new potatoes, tasty, and the dickens to try to peel, so we just throw them into the pot after they've had their scrubbing, priced at 4 pounds for 25 cents... new cabbage, 10 pennies each... and 2 bunches of green onions for 13 cents.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

Central District—Camp plans were discussed when a full attendance of members of the Central District Local Association met at the home of the District Commissioner, Mrs. W. S. Emmerton. Highlights of the evening were the enrollment of Mrs. C. Martin, executive member, and presentation of "Thanks Badges" to Mrs. L. Hobbs, Mrs. C. Martin and Mrs. C. Norman by district commissioner. Presentations of the Thanks Badge were made previously to Mrs. G. Boddington and Mrs. G. Foster. Special guests were Mrs. S. Mainprize, regent, Camosun Chapter, I.O.D.E., and Mrs. C. Boyes, Vancouver. A report showing the growth and progress of the district over the last year was read. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Colorful Ceremony—First Central Brownie Pack held a flying ceremony at St. Alban's Church hall when District Commissioner Mrs. W. S. Emmerton presented Avis Murrant with Golden Hand; Sharon Reid, Margaret Stephen and Ann Williamson, who flew up to Guides with wings, and Guides Patsy Keirs, Beth Keirs, Ann Smith and Donna Rutherford with service stars. Others going up to Guides were Barbara Allen, Carol Byers, Darlain Dovey and Jean Parly. A farewell gift was presented to Mrs. Emmerton, who is leaving shortly for England, by Mrs. Murrant and Ann Smith. Guide-captain, Mrs. J. Hunter spoke on Mrs. Emmerton work in the district where there were only two Brownie packs and two Guide companies in 1945, and now five companies and six packs. Refreshments were served by Guides. Among guests were Mrs. C. Norman, local association, and Rev. F. E. M. Tomalin.

Tillicum—Members of Tillicum Pack held a series of contests during the month of June to close a year's activities. Winners of a treasure hunt were Elf Six first, and Fairy Six second. The Fairy Six also won a scavenger hunt with Elf Six second. Winners of individual contests were: First, Beverly Gandy, Sharon Smith, Joan Edgelow, Donna Chatfield, Shirley Chatfield, Margaret Greig and Marilyn Ballantyne; second, Betty Bone, Sharon Wilson, Carol Bignore, Noreen Fletcher, Stephanie Wilson, Shirley Chatfield and Helen Averill. Elf Six gained highest number of points. Golden Hand badges were presented to Noreen Fletcher, Betty Bone, Sonja Carlson and Christine Willis. Earlier this month the St. Martin's-in-the-Field, Brownie Pack attended church parade at camp commences July 10.

Entertain Pupils

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Tea to Aid Fund — Happy Valley and Luxton Women's Institute met Tuesday to make plans for the garden tea to be held July 12 at the home of Mrs. A. Hankin, Happy Valley Road, in aid of Manitoba Flood Relief Fund.

Home Produce Stall—The sum of $23 was cleared for funds of Ganges Chapter I.O.D.E. by a stall of home produce held in the basement of Mouat's Store at Ganges. Mrs. E. Adams and Mrs. E. Walters were conveners. A chicken donated by Miss S. Chan-teleu was won by Mrs. E. Ashlee.

Garden Tea—Home of Mrs. S. Richardson, 2770 Thorpe Place, was the setting for a successful garden tea held by Camosun Chapter, I.O.D.E., when the sum of $60 was realized. Mrs. F. D. McKechnie was in charge of the talent table; Miss W. Seymour, candle contest; Mrs. G. Miles, contest, and Mrs. R. Campbell, receipt of customs. Conveners were Mrs. A. Mainprize, Mrs. J. W. Van Norman, assisted by Mesdames J. R. Campbell, G. W. MacNeil, C. Edwards, W. Milne, T. Smith, H. W. Edwardson, W. A. Kippen and J. C. Smith.

Successful Party—The sum of $209 realized at a garden party held by Ladies' Auxiliary to Esquimalt Branch No. 172, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., in grounds of Olde England Inn, will go towards furnishing a room in the new home to be built for class six veterans, now being housed at D.V.A. Hospital. Mrs. B. R. Spencer opened the garden party while Mrs. E. Madill, president of the auxiliary and Mrs. V. Barnswell, general convener, received guests. The R.C.N. band played during the afternoon and pupils of Adelaide Duncan Dancing School performed to music of the bagpipes. Tea was served by girl guides and members of Esquimalt Hi-Y Club, under convener-ship of Mrs. V. Gibbons.

Strawberry Tea—Ladies' auxiliary to Britannia Branch, No. 7, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., realized $85 at a Strawberry Tea in auditorium, Blanshard Street. Mrs. M. Graham was general convener. Mrs. E. Wren was in charge of customs; Mrs. R. E. Wilmett, Mrs. G. Wilson, home cooking; Mrs. C. Crab, Mrs. K. Sheret, miscellaneous; Mrs. M. Kamann, flower stall; Mrs. B. R. Grant, grab-box; Mrs. R. Evans, candy; Mrs. A. Jones, games; Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. D. Ree, contests; Mrs. A. Hadfield, Mrs. H. Hayes, Mrs. J. A. Farmer and Mrs. F. Bladon assisted with the tea.

Garden Fete—Arrangements to hold the annual garden fete, July 19 at the home of Capt. and Mrs. G. Maude were made at the quarterly meeting of St. Mary's Church Guild, held at the home of Mrs. T. M. Jackson, Fulford Harbor. Mrs. W. Y. Stewart presided. A donation of $25 was received from the Sunday School towards purchase of a new oil heater for the church. The sum of $10 was voted to the Theological College in Vancouver. Tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. W. Hillesley.

TODAY'S RECIPE

VEAL SHANKS PIQUANT

Six 3-inch pieces of veal shank, about 4 lbs., 1/4 cup flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup fat, 2 cups tomato juice, 2 teaspoons spicy meat sauce, 2 teaspoons horseradish, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper.

Dredge meat with seasoned flour. Brown in fat, using a heavy frying pan or Dutch oven. Combine tomato juice, spicy meat sauce, horseradish, salt and pepper, bring to the boil and pour over meat. Cover and bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., for two hours or until tender. Thicken gravy with seasoned flour left from dredging. Yield: six servings.

Naval Officer's Family Here From Halifax

Charming additions to Victoria's family circles are Mrs. A. G. Bridgman and her three-year-old daughter, Candy, and son, Kenelm, eight months. They accompanied Lt.-Cmdr. (E.) Bridgman, senior officer, H.M.C.S. Ontario, from Halifax, and are making their home at 1590 Broadmead Road. Lt.-Cmdr. Bridgman is the son of Mrs. I. M. Bridgman, 1328 Clover Avenue, and his wife's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gould, New Westminster.

Three Hours Lost On Way To Holiday Haunt With No Phone

By ELIZABETH FORBES

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont.—Lost . . . somewhere between Victoria and Toronto three hours out of a day!

One hour was dropped above the Rockies, another disappeared near Winnipeg and the third before the big T.C.A. North Star touched down at Malton Field, near Toronto. It was 9.30 in the evening (6.30 out in Victoria).

We were 15 minutes late, for we had run through a storm above Lake Superior—floating clouds that swept around us like a thick fog one minute and rolled up with the sweep of the wind the next minute, into billowing crests that reflected the rays of the setting sun, far behind us in a tremendous surge of color from violent purple through the many shades of saffron, rose and pink.

"Thunderheads," someone said, but I saw no lightning, only an awe-inspiring beauty that really was beyond description. We left Winnipeg at 3.30 in the afternoon.

We circled the flood area that from the air seemed to be well back to normal as far as water is concerned. The Red River was again winding and twisting in its accustomed loops, the fields and farmlands turning green within their trim squares. From what we hear in Winnipeg however, it is the residential areas that will take the longest time to come back.

Water, Water Everywhere

Flew for some miles over the fertile plains and then above the Lake of the Woods country. From our school maps we know that this part of Canada has many lakes, but I had never in my wildest imagination realized how much water there could be and still have land.

Looking down from above, one sees miles and miles of lakes, large and small. A winding road touches a few and we could spot clusters of houses here and there. But for the most part the lakes are isolated. Only a few years ago they would be known only to the Indians, the trappers and the prospectors.

Today, hunters and fishermen no doubt go in by plane to these remote spots.

Kenora from the air with its network of rails and its grain elevators, looks to be almost surrounded by water. Leaving the lake country we sailed high in an azure blue sky above a sea of soft floating clouds that looked as if it could easily be walked upon.

It had the appearance of banked snow and yet it had a much more ethereal quality. It was a bit misted—more than a little unreal—like the stuff one imagines dreams could be made of.

Above these clouds, as we sailed along in the blue sky, dinner was served at 6.30 (in Victoria it was 3.30 . . . a good dinner, too—Saltwater steak, mashed browned potatoes, carrots and peas, orange juice, salad, apple pudding, coffee and two tiny peppermint candies in a cellophane bag.

Has Tiniest Kitchenette

These hot meals are brought aboard the plane in huge aluminum containers, all set out on smaller aluminum trays. They are kept hot in an electric oven in the tiniest kitchenette I've ever seen. Every bit of space is used to the best advantage and the stewardess and the purser-steward whip up the attractively-arranged white plastic food trays in no time flat.

We passed over the twin cities of Port Arthur and Fort William where we were above the clouds, then sailed out across the top of Lake Superior and into the sunset storm.

As the clouds piled up we caught glimpses of the lake, like some immense inland sea. Then the course changed toward Toronto and we flew across Lake Huron and above Sault Ste. Marie.

Here we received a bulletin from Capt. J. B. Higham that said in part: "Above Sault Ste. Marie at 7 (EST), altitude 9,000 feet above sea level, 8,200 feet above ground, speed air 225 mph. Will be above Toronto at 8.30 (EST). Weather there cloudy, light rain." And we did touch down as the captain said at 8.30 (9.30 daylight saving time). It had been raining but the sky was clearing with just an occasional flash of lightning.

Waiting for me at the air field were Dr. and Mrs. Donald A. Jaquith, the former Nancy Stark of Victoria.

Up in King County north of Toronto at "Pine Gates," the Jaquiths' country home, my vacation belongs. No telephones, no alarm clock in the morning, no deadline to meet. Seems to me it will be worth losing those three hours.

In any case they are only misplaced for a short time. I'll find them again three weeks from now, I hope, when I take another T.C.A. North Star back to the Pacific Coast.

Midsummer Bridal Portrait

Miss Gwenith Muriel Harris, in her French corded silk gown, was the principal in an attractive ceremony in St. Luke's Church, when she became the bride of William Gardner McIntosh. They left for Moraine Lake in the Canadian Rockies and later will return to Victoria to live. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. Somerset Harris, "Bentwoods," Ten Mile Point, and the groom is son of Mrs. William Lyon McIntosh, Tudor Manor, Victoria, and the late Mr. McIntosh.—(Photo by Leonard Holmes)

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Miss Betty Cook's Pre-Nuptial Parties

Miss Betty Cook, who will exchange wedding vows with Mr. Robert James Harvey this week-end, has been entertained at a number of teas and parties recently.

Yesterday afternoon, her fiancée's mother, Mrs. R. D. Harvey, was a tea-hour hostess at her Sylvan Lane home to more than 40 guests.

Arrangements of peonies, pastel-hued roses and sweet peas decorated rooms, and roses and sweet peas centred the tea table. Presiding at the silver urns were Mrs. J. Burt-Smith and Mrs. Noel Collison. Assisting in serving were Mrs. J. Skellern, Mrs. John McIlreath, Miss Joan Haldane, Miss Winsome Smith and Miss Margaret Morrow.

A surprise shower was held last evening by Misses Margaret and Sylvia Morrow and Joan Mitchell at the bride-elect's home, 2118 Granite Street.

Kitchen gifts, and corsage bouquet of gardenia and stephanotis were presented to the honor guest. Her mother, Mrs. C. C. Cook, and Mrs. Harvey, also received corsage bouquets.

Invited guests included Mrs. H. McKellar, grandmother of the bride-elect, from Montreal; Mrs. Lloyd Manderlet, Miss Cook's aunt, here from Chippewa Falls, Wis., for the wedding; Mrs. J. Armstrong, and Misses June Dickinson, Helen Silman, Betty Garrett, Irene Wilson and Winsome Smith.

A presentation of a silver casserole was made to Miss Cook by Tillicum P.T.A., and at a luncheon recently, members of the teaching staff of Tillicum School presented her with a cut-glass flower vase.

Novel Cakes For Twins

Two birthday cakes centred the tea table when twins Dianne and Dennis Marfion celebrated their ninth birthday at a party given by Mrs. G. White, Happy Valley Road.

Dianne's cake was decorated to represent a garden, with flowers and a china doll sitting on the edge. Tumbling clowns topped Dennis' cake.

Games and swimming were enjoyed by the young guests who included Waldon Davies, Peter Kanoop, Anthony Wattie, Carol Wattie, Andrea Hesselton, Ian Munro, Terry White, Penny White and Christopher Gardiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Drury have returned to their home after spending the past month in Quebec and Ontario with the Imperial Press tour.

Victorians who spent the Dominion Day week-end at Shawinigan Beach Hotel included: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hartley with Pat, Geoffrey and Douglas; Mrs. W. M. Wiper, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Luney, Mr. and Mrs. H. Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sommer with Anne and Graham, Mrs. Carson McCormack, Miss Mary Joy McCormack, Mr. and Mrs. C. Reid, Mr. Arthur Burr, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Potts, Miss Judy Potts, Mr. R. C. Chadwick, Mr. Adam Boyd, Mr. A. J. Sommer, Mr. and Mrs. Bagerstein, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. C. LeFevre, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Nevard, Mr. and Mrs. Postgate, Mrs. Lillian Ross, and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lang and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donaldson have come from Winnipeg to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Martin, 1148 View Street, for the next few months.

Out-of-town guests at the marriage of Ruth Wilson and Ian Lawrence Llewellyn Monday morning were Mr. and Mrs. J. McClure, Mrs. Charles Nettie, Miss E. Doran and Mrs. H. Llewellyn, all of Vancouver; Mrs. E. Willard, Seattle, and Mr. D. Robertson, New York.

Navy Man, Bride United At Cathedral Nuptial Mass

Petty Officer Ivor Emberton, R.C.N., and his bride, the former Donna Vivian Posey, are honeymooning on Vancouver Island, following a nuptial mass in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Monday morning.

Father Donal Lehané performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Posey, 2931 Glasgow Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Emberton of Sedgewick, Alberta.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Peter Black, the bride was charming in a gown of white-satin styled with bustle waist, ruffles of French white nylon lace at each side, Bertha neckline, lily point sleeves and back buttoning. A floor-length Chantilly lace veil cascaded over the bridal gown from a hand-headed head-dress. She carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and swainsons.

Miss Colleen Karse and Miss Marilyn Lamont were bridesmaids in gowns of lace and nylon in yellow and blue respectively. Their colonial bouquets held pink gladioli and sweet peas, centred by pink roses.

Red and cream roses with white Canterbury bells decorated the church. Miss Marguerite McKay played the organ rendering the hymns, "O Sacred Heart," and "Ave Maria."

Eric Hallam, Chilliwack, was groomsmen and Gorgon Posey, brother of the bride, usher.

Father Lehané proposed the toast at the wedding breakfast for the bride party which followed at the home of the bride's mother. An evening reception was held at Strathcona Hotel at which A. Lamont proposed the bridal toast.

For her wedding trip, the bride donned a suit of red gabardine and grey flannel topcoat with white off-the-face hat. Her accessories were white. The newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

WELFARE WORK

Royal Brides Collect $850 Used Clothing

More than $850 worth of used clothing was collected by members of Royal Bride Chapter, I.O.B.E. Mrs. G. F. Green announced at a chapter meeting at the home of Mrs. J. T. Dunn, Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Members voted $50 to child and family welfare projects, and also planned to save at least one jar of jam or jelly during preserving season for this work.

An encyclopedia on was purchased for the library of Veterans' Hospital by the chapter, and members are providing flowers.

Miss Natalie Bergstrasser, a new Canadian from Estonia, spoke on "Problems of Immigration." During the month visit was made to H.M.S. Endeavor Chapter, Sidney, when Mrs. P. E. Corby, honorary regent of both chapters, explained how the two were almost sister chapters as they were started around the same time.

Hospital Furnishings Aim Of St. Joseph's Auxiliary

Paramount objective of St. Joseph's Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary for the ensuing year will be aiding in the furnishing of the new wing for the hospital, Mrs. T. Taylor, president, stated at the annual meeting in the lounge of the Nurses' Home.

At the elections she was returned to office for a second term.

Equipment will include four refrigerators, four vacuum cleaners, four electric polishers, four heated food carriers, four electric inhalators and venetian blinds. Cost of furnishing will be $500 a bed or $2,000 for each ward, Mrs. Taylor said. In her report for the year, the president said the bazaar which realized $2,011 had been the main feature of the year's activities along with the linen shower which netted $225 and 801 pieces of linen.

Mrs. Blair Reid, treasurer, reported the sum of $3,137 donated to the hospital. Mrs. Reid represents the auxiliary on the Community Chest and Welfare Council. Members have assisted in the arthritis and cancer drives.

Miss Joyce Jubb was named winner of the $25 bursary. Sister Rose Mary was elected honorary president; Mrs. V. Thompson, first vice-president; Mrs. D. McDonald, secretary; and Mrs. Reid, treasurer. Elected councilors were: Mrs. E. Hornsby, Mrs. M. Morning, Mrs. J. P. Watson, Mrs. J. Taylor, Mrs. H. A. Humber, Mrs. T. C. Rogers and Mrs. N. Nesbitt. Mrs. F. Dickenson is sewing convenor. Date for the fall bazaar was set for Nov. 9.

Alaska Cruise For Justweds United At Evening Ceremony

Tall baskets of white gladioli and pink peonies formed the setting for the evening wedding in St. John's Church Tuesday which united Sylvia Eleanor Tallack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Tallack, 2999 Dean Avenue and Arthur Sydney Paradise, son of the late Mrs. E. Paradise.

Canon George Biddle performed the double-ring ceremony. Gleaming white satin with lace inserts was chosen by the bride who was given in marriage by her father. The full-skirted gown designed with a high marquisette yoke, and fitted bodice was edged in Chantilly lace and swept into a long train. A finger-tip illusion net veil with deep lace border was held by a coronet of pearls. The bride's shower bouquet was of yellow rosebuds, white carnations, sweet peas, and stephanotis.

A blue taffeta gown with nylon yoke was worn by Miss Jean Markland as bridesmaid. Delphiniums, carnations and sweet peas formed her shower bouquet. Mrs. Norman Land, matron of honor, was gowned similarly in rose and carried a shower bouquet.

A reception was held at Olde England Inn where Alan B. Ford proposed the toast to the bride and Harvey Gootel to the bridesmaids. A three-tier cake topped with wedding bells and bluebirds centred the table. There were table-lit tapered tapers in silver candelabra.

For a wedding trip which will take the newlyweds on a ten-day cruise to Alaska on the Princess Kathleen, the bride selected a three-piece matching ensemble of blue Glenhistle tweed with navy accessories and a four-skin fur piece, the gift of the groom. She wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

They will live in Victoria on their return.

Baptist Girls At Sooke Camp

A group of 36 Baptist explorer girls have left for Sooke to spend seven days in camp. Each day from 7.30 a.m. to 9.30 p.m. will be spent in various activities including swimming, handicraft, bible study and campfire programs.

Miss Ida Elliot, deaconess and director of Christian education, First Baptist Church, will direct the camp, assisted by Mrs. E. L. Allen, nurse; Mrs. A. C. Deeks, cook; Mrs. Doris Seats and Mrs. R. M. Castner, group leaders and Shirley Allen, helper.

ANSWERS TO PREVIOUS PUZZLES

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

When expert opponents have bid a slam of their own free will, you are not likely to get rich by doubling them. There are exceptions to this rule. Occasionally, you have an absolutely sure setting trick; and you are also sure that the enemy cannot escape to some safer slam contract. Sometimes, if your partner is to make the opening lead, you may double to ask for an unusual lead.

However, slam doubles in general are a losing proposition. It is especially bad to double a slam merely on prospects. "Possible" tricks have a way of vanishing, especially when you put the opponents on guard by doubling.

The grand slam shown today was too ambitious a contract. The culprit was not South, who bid the slam, but North. The jump to two hearts was too flimsy, for North should have had a better fit for clubs or a stronger heart suit.

South found out that his partner had three aces. His bid of four no trump, the Blackwood Convention, asked for aces; and the reply of five spades showed three aces. Now South thought it reasonable to count four spades, four diamonds, two hearts and one club. If North had the king of clubs, that suit would provide two additional tricks. If North lacked the king of clubs, he should have a very strong heart suit, which would then provide the needed tricks.

West knew that something had slipped. He knew that the hearts would produce only three tricks for declarer; and the clubs in his hand looked like good insurance against that suit. It looked to him as though declarer could make four spades, four diamonds, three hearts, and only one club. West's reasoning was excellent up to this point. Nevertheless, his double was a very bad idea since it told declarer how to make 13 tricks out of 12.

West opened the eight of spades, and declarer won in his own hand with the king. South cashed the king of hearts, took his four diamond tricks, discarding a low heart from the dummy, and then ran the spades. By this time West was in great trouble. He could save only four cards. Three of those cards had to be hearts to prevent dummy's eight of hearts from becoming established. West therefore had to blank his king of clubs in the hope that declarer would take a finesse anyhow or that his partner had the queen of clubs.

South next cashed the ace and queen of hearts, discarding clubs from his own hand. He then had to win two club tricks to make his slam.

If West had not doubled, South might have taken the club finesse. However, the double practically located the king of clubs and South's only hope was that West had been squeezed on the spades and diamonds.

Declarer therefore led the club from dummy and played the ace from his own hand. Since this dropped the king from the West hand, declarer made his grand slam contract.

West's double would have gained 100 points if it had been successful. Since the double told declarer how to play the hand, it enabled South to win over 2,000 points. It was a very poor idea for West to give up more than 2,000 points in the attempt to win an extra 100 points for himself.

U.S. Aid Decision Said Inescapable

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower said Tuesday night the U.S. decision to aid the South Koreans was "inescapable" with the only alternative "another kind of Munich."

Addressing 47,000 Boy Scouts attending the second national jamboree, Eisenhower said the South Koreans' only "crime" has been "the desire to live their own lives as they chose, at peace with the rest of the world."

"Now our decision must be carried to its conclusion by what ever means are necessary. The end is difficult to see. But . . . how can we doubt eventual success if we meet these issues firmly?" he asked.

Body Taken From Skeena River

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Grim proof that three persons died June 4 when an automobile plunged into the Skeena River was uncovered Tuesday by dragging crews.

It was the body of William Gibb of Prince Rupert. Identification was made through a wallet. Provincial police said they were certain the other bodies were still locked in the car.

The car was located Tuesday about 55 miles east of here and half a mile from the spot where it skidded into the turbulent water which held up dragging operations for a month.

Amputee Finds New Life Through Aid Of Friend

TORONTO (CP)—Friends are wonderful things to have.

For 47-year-old Steve McKinnon, friendship has brought a new lease on life.

A year ago he hadn't much to hope for. An accidental fall from a freight train deprived him of both legs and his left arm. He was resigned to spending the rest of his days in a bed.

He had nowhere to turn; a veteran, he was ineligible for government aid. His family could not help, and he had no money.

Enter friendship. Hal Carter, casualty welfare officer for the Department of Veterans' Affairs, heard of Steve's plight and decided to give some unofficial aid.

First, he scrounged a wheelchair. The hospital where Steve was treated donated its services free.

With just one hand, Steve needed a special wheel-chair. Carter got him one through the Canadian Paraplegic Association. Others contributed money for the chair.

Life began anew. Steve got a job canvassing by telephone for a magazine subscription house. Still undergoing surgery, he hopes to expand it soon to take in dry cleaning, and other jobs. But, best of all, he feels he's being useful again.

While no final verdict has been given, it appears to be the general thought among Saanich Council members that they don't like the idea of the government allocating the municipalities

PIANIST PLAYS FOR 125 HOURS

MUNICH (Reuter)—A pale and exhausted German pianist, Heinz Arntz, staggered from a bar here Tuesday and claimed a world record for piano-playing endurance—125 hours.

He was said to have started playing last Wednesday, keeping up his performance for 23 hours a day and snatching some sleep during the remaining hour.

He beat by one hour his own mark set two years ago when he played for 124 hours.

share of the 3 per cent sales tax for any specific purpose.

The City of Victoria has asked for Saanich Council view on this. Council members have decided to more closely peruse the city brief on the subject before giving an opinion.

Saanich Wants Right To Keep Horses Off Beaches

Saanich Council is seeking jurisdiction below high-water mark along its seashore border for a two-fold purpose—to get license fees from the boatmen renting boats and to keep horses off the beaches populated by children.

Reeve Joseph W. Casey told council that the municipal solicitor was investigating the possibilities.

The meeting was told that the corporation had no control over matters below the high-water mark at the present time. Boatmen at Brentwood and elsewhere had foreshore rights and operated below the line of Saanich jurisdiction.

Councillor George Austin told of many complaints he had received of horses galloping along Cordova Bay's fine stretch of sand.

"Mothers get so worried over the safety of their children that they won't let them go on the beach when horses are about," said the veteran councillor. The same condition applied at Cadboro Bay.

Councillor Frank S. Green was critical of the way horses were ridden "everywhere, over private property and all." He wanted to know if this could not be stopped in some way.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! It's the liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just clog in the digestive tract. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sick, sick and sick. It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 25¢ at any drugstore.

MURDER LIQUIDATED

by Julius Long

THE STORY: Sent to arrest W. G. McGregor, head of a bankrupt insurance firm, Ben Corbett, special investigator of the attorney-general's office, learns McGregor has been sending him anonymous gifts of four $1,000 bills. Corbett suspects a political plot to frame his chief, Attorney-General Keefer, who expects to run for governor. Corbett goes to see Colonel Winton, insurance liquidator, and finds Sammy Berend, a shy lawyer, in Winton's office.

CHAPTER VII

COLONEL WINTON explained that Sammy Berend represented a large block of claims, $300,000 worth, to be exact, against McGregor's company.

Now, when a damage suit claim is filed in our state with the liquidator of an insurance company, a commission is appointed to investigate its merits. This is a formality, because the commission invariably accepts recommendations of the liquidator. I asked Winton if the commission had acted.

"Yes," answered Colonel Winton. "Mr. Berend's claims—I should say the claims of his clients, were allowed in full!"

Sammy Berend had never in his life filed a damage suit for anything but its nuisance value. If Sammy sued for 10 grand, that meant he would take $500 in settlement. And he always sued for at least 10 grand. To allow his claims in full was preposterous. When I got my breath, I said:

"Well, at that rate, the claims against McGregor's company won't be paid off at more than 10 cents on the dollar, will they?"

AT 90 CENTS
Colonel Winton made a long face. "Young man, thanks to my efforts in collecting deficiency assessments from the policy holders, all claims will be paid off at the rate of 90 cents on the dollar!"

Again I was floored. Sammy's clients would collect $297,000 from the assets of McGregor's company. Rather, the clients would collect half of that, and Sammy would collect the other half, for he took all claims on a 50-50 basis.

I stared hard at Colonel Winton, who maintained an air of proud achievement. I turned to Sammy Berend and smirked.

"No more questions," I said. I spoke to Sammy Berend. "You'll be glad to know that you've also put McGregor in jail! In about an hour and a half I'm arresting him for a technical violation of the insurance code! I hope you're satisfied, you stinking little rat!" Sammy Berend paled slightly, but made no move from his chair. I could have called him anything and failed to get a rise out of him. He never exerted himself unless he saw a fee in it. I turned on my heel and left the office.

IN SAMMY'S CAR
I walked rapidly out of the Roland Building, then froze as I beheld the occupant in Sammy Berend's red convertible. Her hair was as fiery as the color of the car, and that was fiery indeed.

I had never seen the girl before and I'd never have missed her if she had been a native of Capital City. I had to admire Sammy Berend's taste; but the idea of a lovely creature like that sitting there in his car waiting for him was nauseating.

"Hello, Miss. Sammy told me to tell you he'd be down in a minute," I said.

She stared at me, her eyes narrowing with suspicion. She said nothing. I had to make her talk. "I'm riding with you. Mind if I climb in the front?"

She hesitated, then said: "Not at all. Sammy didn't mention your name."

I froze, then moved on swiftly around the front of the car and climbed in on the driver's side. She was the girl all right, the one who had phoned Keefer that morning and told him about the $1,000 bills. I'd listened to enough canned phone conversations never to be fooled by the changes recording and a telephone can make.

"Say, what's the idea? What are you doing?"

DOWN THE STREET
"I forgot. Sammy's to meet us at a spot down the street."

Her voice had become so loud that passers-by stared. I drowned out her voice as I started the motor and made it roar. I shot the car away from the curb. The redhead was eyeing me as if I were a maniac. I grinned as I gunned the convertible through traffic.

"Take it easy, sister. I'm the guy you tried to frame when you called Keefer this morning. The guy who got four grand through the mail from the anonymous donor! Remember?"

She remembered. She paled slightly beneath her sun tan. She looked at me as if I were a member of the old Five Points Gang. But she didn't utter a peep. That suited me. I wanted her to think

I was a very tough guy. I was an auto thief and a kidnapper—that ought to hold her!

"Where are you taking me?" Her voice sounded shaky.

"Where you're going to talk! Where you can explain why you phoned Keefer and who put you up to it!"

I reached my apartment house in about 10 minutes. Just for effect I got out the automatic from its shoulder holster.

IDENTIFICATION
She got out and made no sound. She was evidently too badly frightened to remember her handbag, and I caught it up and carried it. I would be interested in the identification that handbag would contain.

I let her into my apartment. Miss Croft, sitting demurely at her desk out front and listening to a soap opera, would not have approved. The police would not have approved.

"Sit down and take it easy," I told her. I dumped the handbag on a stand. I won't add to the cracks already made about contents of ladies' handbags, but I found what I was looking for. An Ohio driver's license. The girl was Wendy Hillyer, from Cleveland, and I knew enough about the town to know that she had a good address.

Navigation And Notices To Mariners

The Department of Transport here has issued a number of notices to mariners concerning navigation aids and other information for waters in this area:

1. The back range light at Ray Point, Chatham Channel, is reported not burning.
2. A temporary marker pile will be placed 40 feet west of the breakwater in Alberni Harbor in connection with dredging there. The marker will be painted white and will display a white light at night.

3. Robertson Point Light at the entrance to Horseshoe Bay, Howe Sound, is reported not burning.

4. The black wooden spar buoy at the entrance to Newcastle Island (Exit) Passage, Nanaimo Harbor and Repulse Point gas buoy, Baynes Sound, both have been replaced on station. Kuluhan Point light, Georgia Strait, has been relit.

5. A 1 1/4-inch cable has been installed between two 50-foot steel towers across the Fraser River at Shelley. A cable car is mounted on the cable. The centre of the cable is 30 above high water level when not in use and 20 feet above when the cable car is at the centre during hydrometric operations by the Resources and Development Department.

An auxiliary cable bearing four sheet iron pennants is strung 10 feet above the main cable.

Britain's Latest Air Invention Seen In Action

The new Fairey 17 anti-submarine aircraft is seen in flight for the first time since its construction. Its mouth-like air intake, exhaust outlet at the side of the fuselage and "grabbing gear" were designed to make a quick stop after landing on the deck of an aircraft carrier.

Baby Sitting Has Strict Rules

OTTAWA (CP)—There's more to this baby-sitting business than keeping an eye on junior while his parents are away.

Ottawa's baby-sitting service has answered several strange requests during the six months it has been in operation. One came from a woman wanting a sitter for her prize dogs. Others have included looking after the children of hotel guests and helping a crippled woman find an apartment.

Founder of the agency is Mrs. Margaret Ormsby, a graduate nurse, who says more than 1,000 "sittings" have been arranged since the service opened last November.

Most of Mrs. Ormsby's 150 sitters are women seeking a little extra cash to help the family along. All must be more than 30 years of age and with the best of character references.

In addition they must follow a strict set of rules. To begin with, they are prohibited from asking questions about hours of returning employers, and guarantee not to touch food in homes, use the telephone, entertain friends, admit strangers to the house or ask for transportation home.

All sitters agree to get to and from jobs on their own.

Mennonites Say They Are Canadians

YARROW, B.C. (CP)—It was Mennonite Bill Dick talking: "Yes, there seems to be a lot of misunderstanding about our way of life. Some people think we're something like the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors. We aren't. Some people say we're Communists. We aren't. We're Canadians."

Young Bill Dick is one of the partner-owners of a modern hardware store here, about 60 miles from Vancouver.

Mennonite farmers here inherited their green thumbs and their diligence from their Dutch forebears. Given a few acres and a spade, they'll make every square foot of soil pay dividends.

That is one reason Yarrow has the appearance of wealth and well-being. Another reason is thrift.

Smoking, drinking, dances, movies and cosmetics are taboo according to the strict tenets of their religion. There was a time, not long ago, when cigarettes could not be bought here. Strict Mennonites would not enter a store which stooped to sell tobacco. But many younger men now smoke and some of the girls add a touch of lipstick when they go into nearby Chilliwack.

Rev. John Julius Klassen receives a salary of only $50 a month, but with the yield of his healthy garden he gets by nicely. This area was first settled in 1928 when settlers took over some 700 acres. Some came from Mexico, others from Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Originally Dutch, the Mennonites' forebears were invited to Russia to farm the rich Ukrainian soil. They refused to bear arms in their adopted land and, when persecuted for this, emigrated to Canada, the United States and Mexico.

Esperanto was invented by a Warsaw oculist, Dr. L. L. Zamenhof, and first published in 1887.

Himmler's Counterfeit Pound Notes Still Turn Up

Bogus British Bills Nazis Made Near End Of War Found Abroad Five Years Later

LONDON (UP)—Heinrich Himmler, Adolf Hitler's police chief, almost pulled off the biggest counterfeit plot on record. Had it succeeded, it might have wrecked Britain's currency during World War II.

The plot was spoiled just in time by the Allied march into Germany. Even so, some of the forged pound sterling notes found their way around the world and are still turning up more than five years later.

Himmler hit upon the forgery scheme as the best means of providing pound notes for Germany's agents and at the same time breaking Britain's currency.

SLAVE LABOR USED

He assembled 140 of the best engravers and printers among Nazi Germany's slave laborers and put them to work engraving plates exactly matching British £5 to £100 notes, duplicating water-marked note paper and preparing matching inks.

Altogether £200,000,000 ($800,000,000 at that time) worth of pound notes were printed. Himmler planned to drop them over London from planes to flood the capital with worthless paper money.

Before he could carry out the plan, British, U.S. and Soviet troops marched into Germany. The plan was moved hastily to a cave in Austria, then destroyed along with most of the forged notes in an attempt to keep the plot secret.

LABORERS EXECUTED

Himmler executed most of the slave laborers who had worked in the plant. Some escaped or were liberated by the Allies, however, and told the story.

The London Daily Mail reported that the bureau for the combating of falsifications, a branch of the international police commission with headquarters at The Hague, has been assigned the task of trying to remove the so-called "Himmler notes" from circulation.

Anton Adler, head of the bureau, told the Mail the notes are sent into his bureau by police from all over the world. Mostly they come from Europe, he said, but some filter back from as far away as Argentina and Australia.

"Heavens knows how many millions are still in circulation," he said.

Canadian Commands

LONDON (CP)—Gen. Charles F. Loewen has been appointed commander-in-chief of anti-aircraft command for the British Isles. The Vancouver-born officer was educated at Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., and Haileybury College, England, and was commissioned in the Royal Field Artillery in 1918.

Statue Shows Human System

LONDON (CP)—A transparent statue of an anonymous 28-year-old German girl will be exhibited at the British Food Fair in September.

German scientists are making the model, described as "an exact reproduction of the female body."

"Within the figure is reproduced every organ, blood vessel, bone, gland and nerve of the human system," said a press release.

"The exterior is a new substance, plastic and fully transparent, which reveals every detail of the wondrous mechanism of the human anatomy."

The figure, lit by electronically-operated lights, will be used to demonstrate lectures on health, diet and hygiene.

A spokesman for the Central Council for Health Education said: "Looked at in the right way, this model is a work of art."

Ground up oyster shells are a valuable source of grit to mix with poultry feed.

Town Not Liable For Fire Damage

MONTREAL (CP)—Towns in Quebec province have the discretionary power to organize fire protection, but are not under legal obligation for this protection under the Municipal Code, according to a Superior Court decision.

The decision came with dismissal of a $70,000 action by the Stanwall Clothing Co. of St. Lin, Que., against the municipality of St. Lin after its textile plant was destroyed by fire Jan. 13, 1948. Damages were sought on the grounds that the factory owners paid taxes to the municipality for fire protection.

In handing down the judgment, Mr. Justice Theodore Rheaume said ineffective or inadequate fire protection given by a municipal fire department cannot be made a liability to the municipality in the event of loss by fire, regardless of the fact that the department is maintained by taxes.

Company spokesmen said firemen arrived in time, but due to shortage of hose and pumping difficulties didn't get at the fire until the plant was destroyed.

Dr. Sander Again Practises

Increase Of Maoris Belies Ancient Forecast

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealand's native Maori race is increasing so rapidly that opinions are being drastically revised as to its future.

Less than half a century ago it was being confidently predicted that the Maoris were doomed to extinction within a short time. Then came a remarkable revival and it was considered the race would survive until its eventual inevitable absorption by the European majority. Now, with its numbers increasing faster than ever it shows every sign of living on as a separate entity, playing an increasingly important part in New Zealand life.

Some estimates place the number of Maories when Europeans discovered New Zealand as high as 200,000. The introduction of European weapons among a warlike people and the introduction of European diseases played havoc with the race.

Ulcer Treatment Studied In U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — If you have ulcers, don't think they'll drive you to success.

Dr. R. L. Sanders, professor of clinical surgery, University of Tennessee, told the medical school here the nervous drive of a man with duodenal ulcers is more than offset by the worrying he does.

"The man with duodenal ulcers is more likely to spend his time in trying to alleviate the pain that gnaws at his vitals," he said. "He is the worrying type and is less likely to succeed for that reason."

Dr. Sanders said a new treatment for ulcers, involving the severance of certain stomach nerves, is being perfected in the U.S.

READY FOR ACTION

Auto Industry Of U.S. Linked With Defence

DETROIT (AP)—The United States' giant automobile industry built $29,000,000 worth of armament in the Second World War. It could build much faster if another emergency should arise.

That's the view of high industry sources today.

They don't talk about war-production possibilities excepting in generalities. Yet it probably isn't much of a secret that just about every auto industry has been surveyed as to its adaptability to armament production and that every manufacturer knows what he would be asked to make.

One executive, preferring to remain unidentified, said recently: "Of course, we have some military work under way; right now it is mainly replacement work on parts and materials for vehicles in the field. The volume isn't great—it couldn't be while we are turning out almost 200,000 peace-time vehicles a week. But we are working closely with the military."

The automobile industry in the Second World War made almost every type of armament from bullets to 6-ton tanks. Before the war's end it had one plant alone turning out airplane bombers at the rate of one every hour.

The industry also had a share in development work on the atom bomb. This secret work was carried on in what appeared to be a department store building in the process of alteration in the heart of downtown Detroit.

The industry's productive capacity has been greatly expanded since the Second World War.

Informal sources say that if another emergency should arise the conversion to arms production would be quick.

Asks New Job At 65 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—A wiry little man who toted baggage for 48 years without going anywhere is all set for a well-earned rest.

This oldest of Canada's railway "red caps" is Henri Lalonde, who is retiring after a career that included service to Presidents, Premiers, government officials and just plain ordinary travelers.

Henri started his career in the old Montreal Bonaventure Station in 1902 and moved to the new C.N.R. Central Station when it was opened seven years ago. For 48 years he's been as much a part of the two stations as the trains that rolled in from all over the country.

Although he didn't devote his time especially to the upper crust, he found carrying celebrities' baggage gave him a bigger thrill—and sometimes more money.

And he proved that a lot can be done on a red cap's earnings if you go about it the right way. He has raised 18 children so far, 12 still living, and he now is able to retire to a cottage of his own in Laval sur-le-Lac. How he made it and how much he made are trade secrets.

Now that he's reached the 65-year retirement age, Henri figures he's had enough railroad work.

"Station work is trying and now I want to get something quieter," he says. "After a rest I'll begin looking for a new job."

In the meantime he's off to his summer home. No, he's not going by train—he's going to drive.

Flying Postcards

LONDON (CP)—Those flying postcards seen over Birmingham and London are easy to explain. The air ministry is dropping cards and its experts hope to receive by return mail information on air currents to be used in testing jet planes which fly at high altitudes to save fuel.

Mystics Delay Unveiling Of Monument

RANGOON (AP) — Burma's monument to independence, a 75-foot obelisk in the heart of the city, must wait months more for unveiling at formal dedication ceremonies — because the stars say so.

Work on the monument started the day the country became independent from Britain. Prime Minister Thakun Nu patted its foundation stone into position exactly at 9:20 a.m., June 4, 1948—the hour judged most "propitious" by state astrologers.

In star-conscious Burma, astrologers thronging the countryside reap a rich harvest choosing auspicious days and hours for a populace demanding "heavenly guidance" for almost every action.

These claims descend from the ancient Brahmin priests who came to Mandalay as advisers to the old-time Burmese kings. Their secrets were handed down from father to son.

Early this year the monument was completed. But when should it be dedicated? That was the question, and in Burma it was not one to be answered haphazardly.

A conference in Rangoon resulted in the summoning from Mandalay of three of Burma's ablest mystics — Kan Nyunt, Kway Nyein and Kyaw Zaw.

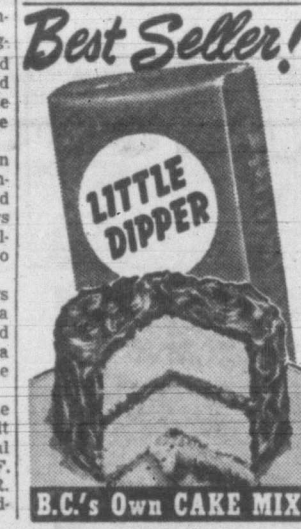

In Rangoon the three wise men from the north unfolded strange charts, made weird incantations, mapped the paths of the planets, measured the distances of the stars.

Five days later an official statement was issued:

"Following a thorough study by the learned astrologers in selecting an auspicious day for unveiling the independence monument, 7:10 a.m., Sunday, Nov. 26, has been fixed as the proper time for the ceremony."

Wales Exports Music

CARDIFF, Wales (CP)—The bards of Wales have entered Britain's export drive. Music is being exported to Canada and the United States by a west Wales company in the form of organ keyboards and actions.

Generations Of Church Elders

MONTREAL (CP)—John M. Loucks of Aultville, Ont., is really a Presbyterian's Presbyterian.

As commissioner representing Glenora in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Mr. Loucks represented fifth generation of Elders in his family. In fact, he's the only one left who had a father at the first Presbyterian Assembly in Canada back in 1875.

Mr. Loucks, 76, has been an elder for 29 years. He was baptized in the Osnaburgh, Ont., Presbyterian Church in 1875, when he was a year and five months old. This was shortly after his father had returned from the first church assembly in Montreal in 1875.

A farmer all his life, Mr. Loucks lives on the farm where he was born. The homestead was first settled by his grandfather who came to Canada as a United Empire Loyalist in 1784. Of the original 400 acres, 25 remain in the family name.

Mr. Loucks represents the end of the family line in the Presbyterian Church. Although he married, he has no children.

Removed Coats

CHESTER, Eng. (CP)—Some Cheshire County policemen were allowed to remove their coats to keep cool during a heat wave. Those who wore braces underneath had to leave their coats on and sweltered.

Freed By Firemen

BARNET, Hertfordshire, Eng. (CP) — Eleven-year-old Brian Taylor climbed a tree and managed to get his arm stuck in a hole in the trunk. Firemen had to grease his arm before he could be released.

BINBROOK, Lincolnshire, Eng. (CP)—After a swarm of bees had invaded Mrs. Monica Rushby's house, police found the queen bee in a cracked door, sealed her in with cement and got rid of the other bees.

Ancestry Suspected

BLAIRMORE, Alta. (CP)—He looks like a dog, barks like a dog and walks like a dog, but Teddy, a four-month-old Dalmatian, eats like a goat. The puppy will chew on a lump of coal briquette and then swallow it. His favorite foods include water melons, onions, tomatoes, cigarette butts, oranges, lemons, matches and lamp-shade covers.

South Koreans Fly From Driving Reds

Tank-Led Communist Invaders Outflank Advanced U.S. Unit

FROM A.P. DISPATCHES

Tank-led Communist forces today (Thursday) struck hard at South Korean troops on the front south of Suwon, outflanking an advanced American unit and threatening a whole important defence sector.

At the same time, a report was received from A.P. correspondent Tom Lambert in Taejon, South Korea, that a sizeable part of South Korea's army appeared Wednesday night to be in full retreat from the area where U.S. forces made their first contact with the North Korean invaders.

Lambert said correspondents saw thousands of South Korean soldiers all heading south away from the battle zone.

The soldiers came down to the highways from the hills and through the rice paddies. They rushed railway stations for trains heading south.

A statement from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said that Communist troops, pressing south from Suwon, had moved forward 11 miles, forcing the South Koreans onto high ground north of Osan, 23 miles south of fallen Seoul.

It added: "North Korean forces continue to press the South Koreans from the north while at the same time extending their columns around the east flank of the defending forces with the apparent objective of cutting off the avenue of retreat."

Damage To Sub Result Of Malice

LONDON (AP)—An Admiralty spokesman said today the navy is inclined to blame malice on the part of "some person" for the placing of sand in the engines of a submarine at Devonport.

The said was found June 17 in the Tally-Ho, which was being refitted.

ACTIVE SERVICE RISK

Movies Worry Over Forces Taking Stars

By VIRGINIA MACPHERSON
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The Korean situation is jarring Hollywood into a new worry: Most of its top men still are in the reserve forces.

And if the government ever starts calling 'em back to active duty, the movie-makers will have to scramble like crazy to find enough actors to make love to the glamor girls.

They never did during the man-less years of World War II. Middle-aged Romeos creaked out of semi-retirement to fill the gap. And it wasn't too bad, if you didn't mind an obvious hair-piece or a cinched-in corset mixed up with romance.

But life and love—on the screen perked up considerably when Tyrone Power, James Stewart, Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, etc., turned in their uniforms for civvies.

Now, if Russia gets tough, it looks like we'll be in for another cycle of "December heroes" wooing "May beauties."

Actor Audie Murphy, the most decorated soldier of the last war, already has said he'll get back into khaki "if they need me."

"This Korea thing isn't good," he said. "Looks like they're gonna need a lotta soldiers over there. And if the army calls me back, naturally I'll go."

Patty Meets Sedgeman For Tennis Title

WIMBLEDON (CP)—Frank Sedgeman of Australia, and Budge Patty of the United States, will play for the men's Wimbledon tennis title which Ted Schroeder is not defending.

Patty stopped Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5 and Sedgeman won a five-set classic from Jaroslav Drobny, self-exiled Czech, 3-6, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2.

It was the second consecutive day that Sedgeman had come from behind a two-set deficit. Patty will meet Sedgeman Friday.

Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif., made certain today that an American girl would win the women's singles title by defeating Mrs. Betty Hilton Harrison of Britain, 6-2, 6-2, in a quarter-final match.

The said was the only non-American left in the women's division.

South Korean Army Is U.S. Trained

Soldiers of South Korean Republic are using U.S. arms, equipment and military "know how" to defend their country from Red invasion from north. Above, U.S. Army Lieut. R. Moore, left, and

Lees Shoots Lowest Score

TROON, Scotland (CP)—Arthur Lees, British Ryder Cup golfer, shot a 68 early today and saw his score stand up all through the day as the best that 93 shotmists could produce in the first round of the British Open tournaments.

Johnny Bulla, Pittsburgh pro, and Johnny McHale, Philadelphia amateur, carded 73's—the best the U.S. contingent could do over Troon's testing 6,583 yards.

Clyne Named New B.C. Judge

OTTAWA (BUP)—A Vancouver-born lawyer, John V. Clyne, has been appointed as the seventh justice of the Supreme Court of British Columbia.

Announcement of his appointment was made today in Ottawa.

The size of the B.C. Supreme Court was recently increased from six to seven justices.

Clyne's appointment is effective at once.

STUART KEATE BECOMES TIMES PUBLISHER AUG. 1

Vancouver-born Stuart Keate, former sports editor of the Vancouver Daily Province and until recently Time magazine's bureau chief in Montreal, will take over the duties of publisher of the Victoria Daily Times on Aug. 1, G. Maxwell Bell, owner of the paper, announced today.

Mr. Keate, 36, is well known to all British Columbia news-men, particularly in the realm of sport, while his experience with the widely-read United States weekly has equipped him with a comprehensive knowledge of modern newspaper production.

No stranger to Victoria, since he filled many assignments of a varied character in this community for the Province, Mr. Keate is today renewing several old acquaintances prior to taking a July vacation at Sprat-Lake. He is remembered by not a few Victorians with whom he served as a lieutenant commander in the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War. He is a graduate of the University of British Columbia, is married and has two children.

Vishinsky May Be On Mission To East Asia

Speculate Over Moscow Absence

LONDON (AP)—The continued absence of Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky from the Moscow scene has raised speculation among diplomats that he is on a mission to Asia.

The speculation centres about these guesses:

1. That Vishinsky is in Red China for talks with Chou En-lai, premier and foreign minister, on the crisis in the Communist east's relations with the west.

2. That Vishinsky is in Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea, conferring with the Red government on moves in the Korean war.

3. That Vishinsky is ill.

The last word on Vishinsky from Moscow was that he was apparently on vacation. His last announced appearance was when he saw Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the U.N. May 18.

A suspicious circumstance is the similar absence from the news of Ho Chi-minh, leader of the Viet Minh rebellion against the French-sponsored Viet Nam government in Indo-China. There has been speculation that he has been either in Red China's capital, Peiping, or in Moscow. It could mean a conference on future Communist moves in Asia.

U.S. Airlines To Fly Troops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Defense Department said today it has contracted with seven airlines to make special flights hauling men and supplies to the Far East. The operations will be carried out within the next few weeks.

Thugs' Getaway Motorcar Found

TORONTO (CP)—A lime-colored convertible automobile, used by two bandits who held up a Dominion Bank branch in suburban North York and escaped with $2,000, was recovered today.

The car, stolen from a parking lot, was found bogged in a swamp a short distance from the bank.

Always Land On Their Feet?

Here is feline hitchhiker who came down on something other than its own personal landing gear. "Slipstream," five-month-old kitten, sneaked into plane's wheel well at airport near Millersburg, Pa., and somehow escaped injury on 300-mile flight to Willoughby, O., airfield.

Claxton Rules Out Conscription Plan

Coinciding with the departure of three west coast destroyers from Esquimalt this afternoon to offer Canadian aid in the Korean war, Defense Minister Claxton announced in Ottawa that it was not planned to send into the Pacific any further R.C.N. ships than those now based here.

At the same time, Mr. Claxton said the government was not considering peacetime conscription at present.

"It forms no part of our program at the moment," he said. "We are not in favor of it."

Discussing Canada's possible contribution in the Korean crisis, he said the need at the present time was primarily for equipment.

In addition to announcing that only west coast ships were going to cross the Pacific, Mr. Claxton said the ships based on the east coast were to undertake their planned training cruise to Europe.

The three west coast warships which sailed from here this afternoon are H.M.C. Ships Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux. Their destination is Pearl Harbor, where they will be held in readiness for any commitment in the Korean war which the United Nations decides to make for them.

American Wins Total 14 Of 20 In Yacht Regatta

VANCOUVER (CP)—After five days of competition in the Pacific coast yacht racing championships here, Americans sailed off with 14 of the 20 first-place ribbons and many of the winners still don't know they have won.

Biggest headache of the show came Tuesday when officials gathered to issue prizes to the better than 1,000 entries.

After several protest and misplaced awards the committee went into a six-hour huddle. They were still confused when they came out.

Still in doubt about several awards that would have to be retrieved and re-awarded, the officials were further embarrassed when it was announced they didn't know how the large boat division.

Woman Dies After Choking, Falling

A Saanich woman died today when she choked on some bread crumbs, ran to the bathroom, and fell, striking her head on a cupboard.

She was Mrs. Eleanor Colley, 65, corner of Goward and West Saanich Roads.

Police say she died following unsuccessful attempts by the Saanich Fire Department to revive her with an inhalator.

It is not known yet whether cause of death was choking from the crumbs, the blow on her head as she fell, or a combination of both.

Labor Wins Support On Korea Action

No Vote Taken As House Solid

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Labor government won overwhelming support in the House of Commons tonight on its decision to help the United States put down the South Korean invasion.

The House was so solidly behind Prime Minister Attlee's government, except for a few pacifist members, that it did not even bother to vote on a government motion asking for support of its decision.

British warships are engaged in the Korean theatre alongside American ground, air and naval units.

During the debate, Attlee said the world was faced with an act of naked aggression committed against a sovereign state established by the United Nations and recognized as a lawful government of South Korea. He said the peoples must support their governments in asserting the rule of law if they wished to avoid another world war.

Mr. Attlee received the full support of Opposition Leader Winston Churchill in the action taken by the British governments on the Korean invasion.
